SUMMARY.

The Allied Ministers have handed M. Scouloudis, the Greek Premier, an important Note.

It defines material dispositions expected of Greece in conformity with the previous agreement.

After the receipt of the Note M. Scouloudis conferred with King Constantine, and the Cabinet met.

It was stated later that the Allies' optimism had greatly weakened.

The Athens correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says the situation is regarded as grave.

The first important British reinforcements reached Salonica on the 24th instant.

A vast enveloping movement by heavy allied forces is reported to have taken place on the Monastir front.

The Servians are concentrating on a fresh position parallel to the Albanian frontier.

Servians and Bulgarians are engaged in a battle north-westward of Uskub. The Servians are fighting with desperate courage.

News from Athens states that the Servians have captured Krusheve, 25 miles north of Monastir.

The French have retaken the offensive and captured a majority of the positions lost on the Krivolak-Rajec line.

The Bulgarians attacked with their full force but were obliged to retreat.

The Servians attacked the Bulgarians at Perlepe. Fighting continues.

Bulgarian newspapers are unanimous that after the occupation of Macedonia Bulgaria's mission will have ended.

Bulgarian public opinion is troubled at the presence of Turkish forces in Thrace.

Turkish newspapers claim that Germany promised Thrace to Turkey, but M. Radoslavoff denies this.

All Roumanian towns on the Danube are being evacuated in view of the impending Russian attack on Bulgaria.

Reuter's Agency in Rome reports that Earl Kitchener, who has arrived there, is the object of general deference.

The Italian press comments favourably on Greece's reply, but members of Parliament are distrustful.

It is stated that the new German intrigues with the Roumanian newspapers and politicians have had little effect.

The Roumanians are greatly impressed by Russia's concentrations, believing that they have 500,000 men and 2000 guns.

Two hundred Russian ships have collected at Reni, on the Danube, and expect early sailing orders.

Roumania has refused a joint demand by Austria and Germany to allow war vessels to proceed down the Danube.

There are extensive movements of German troops from the west towards Servia.

There are other movements of troops in Hanover and Cologne towards Belgium. The movements are widespread.

The British artillery has successfully bombarded many portions of the German trenches on the western front.

Russia hopes to put in the field in the spring 7,000,000 troops and 10,000 pieces of artillery.

The Trans-Siberian trains are daily delivering loads of ammunition, including heavy guns, made in Korea and Japan.

An Austrian communique says:—"Desperate fighting continues around Gorizia. We maintained our positions."

The Italian bombardment of Gorizia with heavy guns is incessant.

The Allies' artillery on Wednesday and Thursday effectively bombarded the heavy Turkish guns.

Large numbers of wounded Turks recently arrived in Constantinople.

It is reported from Athens that revolutionary proclamations have been distributed among the Turkish army.

New South Wales has decided not to adopt the scheme of the Commonwealth and other States for future loan requirements.

It is officially stated that a disturbance, which threatened to become serious, broke out at the Liverpool camp on Friday.

A board sat on Saturday to investigate the occurrence, and its report is expected to be issued to-day.

The silver jubilee of the Political Labour League was celebrated by a sports meeting at the Show Ground on Saturday.

A concert was held at the Town Hall in the evening. The audience was small.

Mr. Carmichael addressed about 500 riflemen at the Randwick Range on Saturday, upon his scheme to raise a riflemen's battalion.

"If you do not mean business," he remarked, "the conclusion come to will be that you joined a rifle club for nothing but sport."

A week's recruiting campaign was started at Newcastle on Saturday. Thirty-four men were enrolled.

The railway and tramway employees of Newcastle support Mr. Gardiner, M.L.A., and have censured the Premier.

At a meeting of the association a motion was carried asking Mr. Holman to resign and contest the seat against Mr. Gardiner.

A strike has occurred at the Newcastle steel works over rates of pay and conditions.

There are 200 men out, and their action will affect the delivery of munition steel.

The dispute among the ironworkers at the Walsh Island works has been settled, and the men will resume work.

The report of the War Chest Commissioner on his first trip to Anzac is to hand.

The maintenance of efficiency among the troops can be greatly helped, it is pointed out, if supplies are regularly maintained.

During the week-end many householders in the outlying suburbs were unable to obtain butter.

The Butter Advisory Board will meet Mr. Hall to-day to discuss the position.

It is anticipated that all export will immediately cease.

A fire broke out last night in a clothing factory at the rear of 310 George-street. Two rooms were burnt out.

Alterations are being made in the plans of the City Railway as far as the Circular Quay overhead or "daylight" station is concerned.

It is stated that it will be necessary for the Government to pull down the building occupied by the Sydney Harbour Trust as offices.

There is again trouble at Cockatoo Dock over a question of demarcation of work. The engineers have ceased work.

The Governor-General will shortly visit the Tumbarumba district to inspect its timber resources.

It is understood that the beer gardens scheme has been definitely dropped.

Nearly 50 clubs took part in the second round of the grade matches at the Randwick Rifle Range on Saturday.

Dry weather continues over a large part of the North Coast district, though rain has fallen in isolated parts.

The hard north-easter which blew on Saturday resulted in several capsizes in the sailing races.

The Sydney Flying Squadron's 12-footers Handicap was won by Rosetta, with Kismet second, and Nimrod third.

The underground mine workers at Broken Hill have decided not to work until the 44 hours' week is granted.

A rifleman named George Coxall was accidentally shot at the Port Adelaide Rifle Ranges on Saturday.

The London wheat market is firm. Australian grain is 6d per quarter dearer.

Owing to the dry weather and short supplies the demand for chaff at the Railway auction on Saturday was again good.

For the past four days the market has been steadily rising, and now stands from 5s to 7s 6d per ton firmer than late rates.

The market for potatoes and onions was firm. The demand was again keen and the bidding brisk.

Forecast: Still sultry in the north-eastern district, otherwise fine and cool generally, with south-west to south-east winds; squally on the coast.

Some scattered showers in the north-east and southern districts, including coast.

CRYSTAL PALACE—ALL THIS WEEK.
"MIDNIGHT AT MAXIM'S."

A film visit to New York's most famous Night Club. It's Broadway's latest insanity. The maddest madness is at Maxim's. Hosts of pretty women, intoxicating music, jollity, and careless abandon in the air. We've brought it all to Sydney—picked it up bodily, star dancers, chorus girls, diners and all in a big 4000ft film. When you see the film and hear the music that accompanies it, you'll agree that it's about as good as being there. A bit startling at first till you get used to it—but it's a novel experience. All the high-jinks at Maxim's after the clock strikes twelve—shown in this remarkable film. Hours of screening: 11.27 a.m., 1.7, 2.47, 4.27, 6.7, 7.47, and 9.27 p.m.

LYRIC THEATRE.
"THE MANSERVANT."
Jack Henderson plays the principal role in a comedy-drama he made famous on the stage. He is the author who wants a manservant for the central figure of his book, and himself applies for a position as such. He falls in love with his employer's daughter, and then meets his master at a card party at his own club. The mix-up is humorous to a degree, with dramatic situations standing out in sharp but delightful contrast. A Broadway Favourite's production in 4 acts.

COLONIAL THEATRE.
VIOLA DANA IN "HER HAPPINESS."
Comedy and drama are blended in this production in a way which only Viola Dana, sweetest little girl on the screen, knows how to carry to perfection. She is a small-town girl who rebels against her parents' wishes, but returns to save her father and mother from the poverty into which her action throws them.

EMPRESS THEATRE.
"THE CLUTCHING HAND."
Third Complete Story.
All the devices which the mysterious criminal has used against Craig Kennedy and Elaine in the two previous stories are but a foretaste of what is to happen in this third tale, "The Poisoned Room" and "The Vampire." Read the stories in "The Sunday Times," and see them all in films.
Performances continuous, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

"THE HYPOCRITES."

THE NAKED TRUTH

The most wonderful film ever produced, now in its third week of sensational success.

A Clergyman's praise:—
"If more such pictures were screened the standard of morality would undoubtedly be raised."
Rev. Thomas McVittie,
Rozelle.

A Man's condemnation:—
"The unhealthy and jaundiced medium through which this picture views every phase of life, is apparent not only from its indecency, but also from its want of respect for plain upright men and unpretending women. How such a profligate picture as "Hypocrites," with its shallow and impotent pretensions, can claim to educate is beyond comprehension."
James Watkin, Paddington.

What is the Secret of Corset Comfort?

THE answer is . . "to be perfectly fitted with the correct model to suit your individual figure." You may say "that is probably possible for those who can afford to buy an expensive model," but David Jones' emphatically state—"that it is possible," even if you purchase a corset at 5/11.

Why?

Because we stock the Royal Worcester Corsets, which have gained (and still hold) the foremost position by reason of the fact that there is A Distinct Model for each Individual Figure. If you are slim there is a corset for your particular style of slimness, if you are stout there is a model specially designed to properly fit your figure, giving perfect comfort and making your fulness much less apparent.

Be Personally Fitted.

We cannot too strongly emphasise this point, being convinced that it is the only sure way to obtain full comfort in corsets. Our Corsetieres will give you the same aid and advice absolutely irrespective of the price you desire to pay—whether it be 5/11 or 5 Guineas.

THE TIVOLI FOLLIES.

The "Mississippi Cabaret," blazing with light and glowing with warm colour, was successfully opened by the Tivoli Follies at their theatre on Saturday night before a crowded house, which was delighted to welcome their return. The changes in the new entertainment were so swiftly and smoothly made as to suggest a continuity of idea which did not really exist, a connecting link of sustained gaiety alone binding together the various mirthful elements of the new revue. Jack Cannot was, of course, the central figure in the fun. He comes on as a jovial, red-faced Colonel K'nut in Khaki, otherwise known as "Naughty Jack," and brags of his adventures on the battlefield, where "his voice could be heard a mile" until a bullet in the Lonesome Pine sent him back to his old haunts in town. This amusing piece of character-drawing was followed later by "Mr. O'Reilly," the catchy refrain of which the audience was coaxed to take up with zest, the comedian posing as a chorus-master whose enthusiasm was not to be denied. Mr. Cannot's burlesque juggling was a very mild affair.

Miss Vera Pearce was another artist who enjoyed a great reception. There was a suggestion of "Poland in a snow-storm" about her costume, for "Parisienne" with its piquant background of pretty chorus girls, but her best musical number was "Burgundy," in which herself and companions were all "boys." "Arms of the Army" brought them all on as gay young recruits; and the "Queen of the Follies" also shared as Miss Brighton Early in a comedy sketch, the clever feature in which was the negro character of Ebony Wall by Walter Weems. "Do you know how to dress a chicken?" asked Miss Brighton. "Yes, I know right enough—but I can't afford it"—gave quite an unexpected turn to the conversation. Mr. Frank Greene hit the mark with "The Sunshine of Your Smile," a captivating song effectively rendered. His exposition of various kinds of kissing with "Miss Brighton" finally degenerated into vulgarity. The baritone, an actor of much experience, knows quite well how to keep within the limits of mere playfulness, and should do so.

Miss Thelma Raye introduced herself happily by singing Braga's "Serenata." The soprano did this whilst playing the beautiful violin obbligato to which the melody is sometimes transferred the voice and violin parts being interchangeable, and of almost equal value. More than half the audience thought the violin-playing was a "fake," but Miss Raye originally exhibited this plenitude of gifts at Daly's Theatre, where she won her first promotion by replacing Denise Orme (Lady Churston) in "The Little Michus." Miss Raye had also a dainty song, "China Town," in which she led the China girls, with their crimson lanterns like glow worms, from the back of the theatre on to the stage. The "morning rehearsal in a continuous vaudeville theatre," autocratic manager Alex. Hurley, Prune Sisters, Kitty and Molly M'Guire, had its humorous moments with George Welch as a tipsy conductor, but at times there was more realism than fun in the characterisation—being too life-like, it became painful. The "disposal" of a gigantic glass tankard of beer at a draught, the liquor running down the conductor's chin and the front of his coat, should be "conducted" in the seclusion of the wings. Alex. Yakovlenko's dance with Vera Pearce was admirably carried out, and the burlesque by Weems and Welch caused roars of laughter. There was a smart pas de trois by the Russian artist with Eileen Watson and Jean Keith, and applause was won by the vocal duet for Betty Don and Peggy Peate.

The Brussels Concert Party, violin, 'cello, piano, and baritone soloist, contributed a dashing musical episode, with a charming berceuse for 'cello in muted tones, and the Toreador's Song from "Carmen," when the prevailing animation was renewed. This turn will help on the season by sustaining its musical interest. Mr. Will Quintrell directed the orchestra.

ACTION FOR LIBEL.

PERTH, Sunday.

The libel case in which Robert Salter, organiser and secretary of a patriotic art union, claimed damages against the "West Australian" newspaper was concluded last week. The libel complained of was contained in a letter published in the "West Australian" over the name of J. Cornell, a member of the Legislative Council, in which it was complained that Salter had delayed the payment of a prize of a block of land, while accepting £2 2s from the mother of the winner, a minor, to enable the transfers to be effected. Subsequently the "West Australian" published a letter from Mr. Cornell, stating that he had been misinformed, and that the money had not been paid to Salter, but to a land agent. It was stated in evidence that plaintiff's solicitors accepted £2 2s in settlement, as far as Cornell was concerned. The jury awarded plaintiff £475 damages, and costs. A stay of execution was granted.

THE LABOUR PARTY'S JUBILEE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. John D. Fitzgerald's reply to my letter, which you kindly published yesterday, evidences the fact that, in my desire to be as brief as possible, I unwittingly gave ground for misapprehension. By adding at the end of my letter the words "so far as the Labour Defence Committee was concerned," my meaning would have been clear—namely, that the people of Great Britain did not subscribe any money towards the support of the maritime strikers in Sydney in 1890 through the Labour Defence Committee, of which I was secretary. Unless I am much mistaken, the strike had collapsed before Mr. Fitzgerald reached England, and the moneys to which that gentleman refers must have been sent direct to the individual unions affected by the strike, and used by them for relief purposes. Certainly they were never received by the Labour Defence Committee. As soon as the strike ended the committee disbanded, and I was one of a board of three appointed by the late Sir Henry Parkes to dispense relief to the victims of the strike. This work the board carried on for many weeks without either fee or reward. The cable which the late Mr. George Edwards sent to London to await Mr. Fitzgerald's arrival I never heard of before. Mr. Edwards was secretary of the Stewards and Cooks' Union, and he may have sent it in that capacity.

I am, etc.,
T. J. HOUGHTON.

CHAPTER XXV.

LET IT REST!

Jimmie pushed the directory away from him, and rising to his feet, stood staring at it as he might have stared at some human being who had just given him the most startling information. From the two big pages, crowded with lines of small type, that particular entry seemed to stand out with extraordinary prominence. He softly repeated it to himself.

"Holgate Lodge: The Dowager Marchioness of Scraye!"

This was indeed a revelation. It was not that Jimmie was astonished to find that the Dowager Marchioness of Scraye dwelt at Holgate Lodge in St. John's Wood—there was nothing more surprising in that than that she should have been found to be resident in Mayfair or Belgravia. Nor was there anything surprising in the fact that the present marquis had visited her at midnight. What was surprising, what was astonishing, what was a veritable revelation to Jimmie, was that he had suddenly hit upon the solution of the problem that had been presenting itself to him at intervals all the evening—the problem of Lord Scraye's behaviour with regard to the scrap of letter-paper. Scraye had most certainly recognised the handwriting on it, and had instantly pretended that he didn't. He had betrayed knowledge one instant, and had affected ignorance in the next. And Jimmie had asked himself in vain—why?

He knew now. That handwriting was Lady Scraye's. If—as seemed only too certain—it was addressed to Curtis, then it was evident Lady Scraye had dealings with Curtis—Curtis, the man who, without doubt, had secured the registered packet and its valuable contents. Of course she was connected with him, and with Mrs. Wythenshawe—had not he, Jimmie, seen all three together that night? Had not Curtis accompanied her to Holgate Lodge? The thing was plain and sure. Lord Scraye had recognised the handwriting—had also recognised that his kinswoman was in league, association, was at any rate somehow connected with these thieves, and he had visiter her to expostulate, to demand an explanation, to tell her of what he knew. That was it, of course—Jimmie understood now the meaning of the scene which he had witnessed from outside the window of Lady Scraye's house; he was now able to put a meaning to Lord Scraye's evident vexation, and to the lady's petulant reception of his upbraidings.

Kinswoman? In what particular relationship, then, did Lord Scraye stand to Lady Scraye? Was she his mother, his step-mother—what was she? Jimmie was not well up in the pedigrees and genealogy of the English aristocracy, and he knew little more of the present Marquis of Scraye than that he was a friend of Packe, a very rich young nobleman, and an easy-going, genial person, with no side on him. However, it was no difficult matter to find things out before going to bed. Jimmie possessed very little of a library beyond his sporting books and his French novels, but he had on his desk a shelf of reference books, and amongst them a Dod's Peerage. He fetched it over to the hearth and turned up what he wanted, and in a few minutes was in possession of as much of the family history of the Scrayes as served his purpose at that time. The last Marquis of Scraye, he found, had been married twice; the present Marquis was the only child of the first marriage; his father's second wife was Miss Alethea McMicking-Mason, daughter of Aloysius McMicking-Mason, of Chicago—and therefore presumably American. There had been no issue of that marriage, apparently; none, at any rate, was chronicled in Dod. But Dod afforded Jimmie the further information that the Dowager Marchioness of Scraye (nee McMicking-Mason), resided at Gillenham Manor, Wiltshire, and at Holgate Lodge, St. John's Wood.

Jimmie put his reference books away, and went to bed. He had learnt enough for one night. With his characteristic phlegm he dismissed all thoughts of mystery, all problems, from his mind as soon as he closed his bedroom door, and he slept the sleep of the unperplexed until Kentover woke him next morning. But after breakfast, getting Eva Walsden to himself, he drew out the scrap of torn letter-paper and showed it to her.

"I suppose you were pretty familiar with the correspondence at that place in South Molton-street?" suggested Jimmie. "Used to see customers' letters, I suppose? Do you recognise that handwriting?—have you ever seen it before? It's a bit peculiar—the sort of writing one would remember."

Eva took the scrap of paper, glanced at it, and handed it back almost indifferently.

"Oh, I know whose writing that is!" she answered. "It's Lady Scraye's—the Marchioness of Scraye. She lives at Gillenham Manor, in Wiltshire—I have often addressed things to her there."

"And she's an address in London, too, hasn't she?" asked Jimmie.

"Yes—Holgate Lodge, in St. John's Wood," replied Eva. She glanced at the scrap of paper, and then at Jimmie. "Has that anything to do with this dreadful mystery?" she asked.

"May have," said Jimmie. "But don't you bother your head about that. Your metier at present is to—take a holiday."

"But I can't go on taking holidays for ever," she answered. Then, somewhat inconsequently, she asked, "Will the police want me any more?—about that inquest, I mean?"

"I should think not," replied Jimmie. "I think that incident is closed. Look here!—we can't talk now, but I want you to just keep quiet until this affair is blown over, don't you know? You're all right with my aunt, aren't you? Well, I'm going to run you both down there to-day, and next week I'm coming down myself for a day or two, and then I want to have a talk—we haven't had a chance of talking since we were in Paris and I've a lot to say to you."

"About this affair, I suppose?" asked Eva.

"Incidental to it, incidental to it," replied Jimmie. "In this world one thing springs out of another."

Jimmie, however, did not convoy his ladies down to the Kentish coast that day. Miss Trickett, who rarely came to town, had other views. She wished to stay in London for at least two days in order to do some shopping; in that, she said, Eva would be very useful to her. Jimmie made no objection, but he was strict in insisting that his aunt and her companion should use a private motor-brougham in their journeys from shop to shop, and that Kentover should accompany them in the character of footman. And before they set out that day he took both his aunt and his man aside, and gave them strict injunctions as to taking care of Eva. Kentover, in his solemn fashion, gave his promise; Miss Trickett told her nephew that he ought to know her by that time, and that if anybody could spirit her charge away from her they would be very clever indeed. Jimmie believed that, and having seen them depart betook himself round to his friend Packe.

He had been wondering at intervals during the morning if he would take Packe into his confidence about the affairs of the previous evening. Should he tell him of the adventure of the theatre, of the eavesdropping at Holgate Lodge, of his momentous discovery that Lady Scraye was on friendly terms with Mrs. Wythenshawe, and the man known as Curtis—or should he not? The answer to that question largely depended upon the answer to another—was he firmly resolved to go on with this affair, did he really mean to track these people down? And, oddly enough, before he could say a word to Packe about anything that was in his mind, Packe opened fire on him with that very question. He looked, so Jimmie thought as soon as he entered, like a man who has something to say, and he suddenly said it, blurting out his question with brusque directness.

"Look here, Jimmie," he said, "are you really intending to run these people to earth? You know what I mean."

Jimmie calmly seated himself and lighted a cigarette.

"And you know what I said last night," he answered. "I don't know that I've altered my mind."

Packe took a turn or two round the room.

"Do you think it's wise?" he asked. "After all, you know, it's no concern of yours. And if these chaps whose concern it really is—Scraye, Lord Palsgrave, and Sir Simon Fleming—are going to let it drop——"

"Are they going to let it drop?" asked Jimmie with a quick turn of his eye on Packe. "Eh?—are they?"

"You know what Scraye said—what he advised. That it would be best to let the police work at things."

"The police," said Jimmie oracularly, "haven't the ghost of a notion that there's any connection between the murder of Madame Charles and the theft of these valuable heirlooms and things. And as Scraye doesn't seem disposed to tell them of the connection, and you don't, I'm the only person, except Schmidt, who does know of it."

"Are you going to tell them, then?" asked Packe.

"I didn't say so. But at present I've no intention of telling them. What I do, I'd rather do in my own way."

TOLUENE.

RECOVERY IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The report of the toluene sub-committee appointed to investigate the possibility of the production of toluene in Australia for the manufacture of high explosives has now been considered by the Federal Munitions Committee. The report was delayed somewhat, owing to anxiety to ascertain from the British Government what position it was in as regards the supply of toluene. An intimation has been received from the Minister for Munitions stating that he does not require any toluene from Australia, and from other sources the committee has ascertained that the supply of toluene in Great Britain is ample for present requirements. The only toluene now required will be for the future Commonwealth nitro-toluene factory, which will be erected as quickly as circumstances permit.

In the report of the recent early closing meeting it was incorrectly stated that Mr. G. T. Clarke spoke in support of resolutions submitted.

All the most likeable people have clear skins, and look healthy and bright. So can you, if you will keep your liver and digestion fit, by a Cockle's Pill now and then.—Advt.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

ANNUAL GRADE MATCHES.

SECOND ROUND DECIDED.

The second round of the annual A, B, and C grade matches promoted by the Metropolitan District Rifle Clubs' Union was decided at the Randwick range on Saturday afternoon. The conditions were teams of eight men a side, 14 shots at 600 yards. Nearly 50 clubs took part. A strong north-easter blew throughout the afternoon, with just sufficient trickiness in it to make matters decidedly unpleasant for some of the marksmen. In the A grade the Randwick Literary Institute A team held its position at the head of the list, as did also the Clyde Engineering Works team in the B grade, but in the C grade the Randwick Literary Institute C team was displaced from the first position by the Metropolitan Railways B team, and now occupies third place. The best individual scores were made by T. O'Grady (Randwick Literary Institute), D. Mitchell (Randwick), F. Garrard (Post and Telegraph), and W. Pettigrew (Western Suburbs), who each registered 68 points out of a possible 70. They all fired in A grade teams. F. G. A. Smith (Water and Sewerage Board), with 67, put up the best score for the B grade shots, while of the C grade men H. Bourke (Auburn), with 66, registered the best individual score. The following are the results:—

FIRE AT HOTEL.

OCCUPANTS' NARROW ESCAPES.

WELLINGTON, Sunday.

Early on Saturday morning a fire broke out at Tattersall's Hotel, owned and occupied by Mr. Enoch Fletcher. It was first observed by a girl, employed at the hotel, who gave the alarm. The flames, by then, prevented any retreat by the stairs, and the occupants had to escape by the balcony. The house was full of boarders, and there were several narrow escapes. They lost all their belongings. The upper part of the hotel was destroyed, but by the efforts of the fire brigade, the lower part was mostly saved. The building is insured in the Liverpool and Lancashire Insurance Company, for £1500. The stock and furniture are also insured for £460.

THE GRADE GAMES.

FIFTH ROUND.

The fifth round of grade games was entered upon on Saturday, wickets again favouring the batsmen.

At one part of the game between Waverley and Balmain it was thought the latter side would have been out for less than 200, six wickets being down for 127. Storey, who got 52, put a different complexion on the game, however, and the total was brought up to 244. With an hour's batting Waverley lost four wickets for 103, the principal scoring being done by Carter, 34, and Kippax, 30.

The afternoon's play at Petersham Oval resulted in 444 runs being scored in 214 minutes, North Sydney replying with 67 without loss to Petersham's total of 377. Of the first seven partnerships, five exceeded 40 runs. Taylor (64) top-scored, hitting nine fours in 56 minutes. Norris (61) also occupied 56 minutes, hitting two sixes and eight fours. Merchant with 51 (five sixes and three fours) was batting 26 minutes, Andrews 33 minutes for 42, Garner 23 minutes for 29 not out. For North Sydney, Woods and Mackay scored 67 without loss in 38 minutes.

Paddington, scoring 326, had another day out at Wentworth Park. Winning was again in form, and drove and pulled with marked freedom. His 95, made in two hours, included seven fours. M'Greal batted solidly, and Noble wielded a broad blade, being unconquered after an hour's batting with 58 (nine fours) to his credit.

Good all-round cricket was witnessed between Gordon and Western Suburbs. The former side went in, and it looked as if they were going to make a record score, until "West's" bowling began to take effect. Macartney showed flashes of his best form, and Elder played solidly, the side's total reaching 257. "West's" were sent in about 80 minutes before time, but opened none too promisingly, losing four wickets for 81.

The Redfern-University match should provide an interesting finish. Redfern batted first, compiling 184 runs, Rix making 56. With 65 minutes to bat, University totalled 82 for the loss of three wickets. Bardsley batted excellently for 50 not out, this being his fourth successive score over 50.

Batting first, Middle Harbour knocked up 208 against the Sydney bowlers, Avery's 57 not out being a fine performance. Farnell and Bull also batted well, but the others for the most part did poorly. Sydney commenced in a manner that makes them likely winners, and at the close of play had only lost four wickets for 129, Asher having made 47 and Wright 36 not out.

WHITE has, from the earliest times, been associated with purity and innocence. We find it predominant at births, marriages, and other sentimental occasions—it is seldom used, seriously, in decoration.

When improperly used it will kill the most costly decorative scheme ever planned, so we often see heaps of money spent on the decoration of the walls, window openings, furniture, and hangings, and the ceiling left in pure white to paralyse all else and render ineffective and ridiculous all that has been done below.

Now reverse all this. Take a small bedroom such as we illustrate, and decorate it say in middle tones of blue or purple or full dark tones of Grey or Green with a Ceiling of Cinnamon or Khaki colour, and a dark or even Black Carpet; then let all your furniture be white, with hangings in tone with the walls, and you will have an unusually pretty room.

The little Suite above is intended for a girl's bedroom—it is what we might call "pretty and pleasing"—nicely designed, with something of the "Adam" manner, but strong, serviceable, and low in price.

Wardrobe, Washstand, and Dressing Table will cost you	£23 10 0
And the Bedstead, without Bedding—extra	£4 15 0

Our new Catalogue will shortly be published; shall we take your name and address and post you one as soon as we get them from the printer?

SATURDAY'S LEAGUE GAMES.

The first-grade matches played on Saturday were, with one exception, high-scoring games.

Petersham recorded their first victory this season, beating St. George handily. At the Sports Ground an extra innings had to be played, when Leichhardt scored 4 runs in the tenth, and downed Sydney. The surprise of the day was the easy defeat of Leichhardt Blue Sox, Waverley's strong batting proving too good for the younger team. For the winners, Jimmy Clabby made a 3-bagger, two 2-base hits, and a single in five times at bat. Detailed scores are as follow:—

FIRST GRADE.

Played at Leichhardt Oval (Umpire Mr. W. C. L. Kelly), Waverley, 3, 2, 0, 1, 2, 2, 1, 0, 0=11; Blue Sox, 0, 0, 0, 0, 1, 2, 0, 0, 0=4. Batteries: Waverley, A. M'Queen (p), A. Goldby (c); Blue Sox, C. Lambert (p), N. Ashdown (c).

At Marrickville Oval (umpire, Mr. D. Wharton), Petersham, 0, 0, 0, 2, 0, 0, 0, 0, 1=[illegible]; St. George, 0, 2, 0, 2, 0, 0, 0, 2, 0=4. Batteries: Petersham, M. Francis (p), H. Perkes (c); St. George, [illegible] (p), D. Hutchison (c).

SECOND GRADE.

At Leichhardt Oval, early (umpires, Messrs. W. [illegible] and C. Mortley), Petersham Cubs easily beat Leichhardt II., 15-1.

At Marrickville Oval, early (umpire, Mr. D. Wharton), Petersham Nationals beat Waverley II., 5-4.

THIRD GRADE.

At Centennial Park Bondi defeated Waverley III., 10-6.

At Sports Ground Leichhardt Kiora beat [illegible] 25-7.

At Rockdale St. George III. beat Lewisham [illegible] 48-27.

At Centennial Park Leichhardt Kogarah amassed a huge total against Waverley Waratah, winning [illegible].

POSITION AT YANCO.

No more important question faces the State Government than the future of the irrigation areas at Yanco and Mirrool. It is to be hoped, therefore, that when the Minister for Agriculture told a deputation representing settlers on the Yanco area that their representations would be carefully considered he was thoroughly in earnest. The men that saw the Ministers are in a position to speak with practical experience of the difficulties that are involved in the equitable settlement of the position at Yanco. They represented 240 of the larger settlers upon the area, and have gone into this matter in a most thorough way, and presented a case which may be postponed, but certainly can never be ignored. The fact that a proper settlement of the troubles and complexities that must now be associated with the irrigation area simply means all to these settlers is a sufficient explanation of the energy and ability shown in compiling a lucid and impressive statement of the position. It would be idle and foolish for the Government to treat these representations as typical complaints of new settlers, which can be smoothed over. The future success of this great irrigation enterprise is wrapped up in the sound settlement of present difficulties. We understand that the deputation has furnished Mr. Grahame with a very complete statement of their case. It is a digest of vital evidence given at the recent inquiry, which is contrasted effectively with Mr. Carmichael's deductions. It is a compilation of hard facts. We trust that the Minister will give it the fullest and most careful thought. The suggested remedies will startle the Government, probably because they would mean drastic steps. Yet, before they are dismissed, the question has to be faced—is there any other way out? The settlers want a careful reclassification of all irrigable lands on the areas—following upon a close survey of both top and subsoils—in the light of actual results on the area.

It is not a question that can be answered off-hand with any assurance and a hasty decision by the Minister, and the Government simply will indicate that the real position at Yanco has not been realised. And that means future disaster, not only to many settlers, but to a scheme in which millions are involved. The unpleasant truth is that Parliament and the people have to recognise that certain conditions prevail at Yanco which must be remedied, and the remedy is not easy. It seems beyond dispute that a portion of the country in the irrigation area will not be suitable for intense farming under a system of irrigation until the problem of the clay subsoil is surmounted. On that country there is a "hard pan" beneath the surface soil at varying depths, which is fatal to the successful cultivation of such crops as lucerne. That is a vital point. In the settlement of Yanco lucerne growing was to play the most important part. An irrigation area without lucerne grown on a liberal scale cannot attain any dimensions such as were hoped for at Yanco. Apart from fruit-growing, all the main industries it is desired to establish are based practically upon the growing of lucerne. Dairy farming, lamb-raising, and sheep-fattening mainly depend upon regular supplies of lucerne. The area was subdivided, and thrown open on the understanding that lucerne would flourish. It was the great draw. No one can dispute that. Now we have reached the position when it must be admitted that on a portion of the area lucerne cannot be grown profitably, while the soil remains in its present state. The great trouble is that any effective remedy such as liming, draining, or subsoiling with explosives would be too expensive to be practical.

Mr. Carmichael in his report states that "the heavier soil on the clay subsoil will require constant working for some years, with gradually deeper ploughing to work in the subsoil and break it up sufficiently to let the lucerne roots down. This must be accompanied by a regular series of soiling crops ploughed in to increase the humus, which the original analysis advised was wanting to the soil of the area generally." We fail to see how the commissioner arrived at this conclusion from the evidence submitted, and will be surprised to find it endorsed as a practical remedy by either the experts of the Department of Agriculture, or any practical farmer, seeing that in some cases the subsoil is two or three feet down, and moreover is of a nature that, even if broken up, sets as hard as ever again when it gets wet. It certainly seems that this important question cannot be dismissed as easily as Mr. Carmichael would have us think. Yet it has to be settled if the holders of such land are to have a chance to make good. What is of moment is the extraordinary fact that even at this stage no one seems to know authoritatively what is the area of this "hard pan" country. Steps should certainly be taken to ascertain the fullest information in this regard. Until that is done it is impossible to deal equitably with the subject, and lay down a sound policy for the guidance of the future commissioner or commissioners. Mr. Grahame has officers at his disposal who would be able to furnish him with the information that it is vital he should have, and the interests of the State demand that he should be thoroughly equipped in this respect, if he is to advise his colleagues soundly as to future steps.

ENGLISH WOOL TRADE.

CROSSBRED TOPS TO BE LICENSED.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

BRADFORD, Oct. 14.

Business in fine tops during the past week has been distinctly quiet, and while values are not very much easier most makers are now quoting the lowest level of a week ago. Better supplies are coming from the combs, and spinners do not complain so much of short delivery, though they will not yet admit that things are as they should be. Small weights of merino tops are being offered from Australia. There is some buying for new year delivery, but not a great deal. The best topmakers are wanting 3s for 64's for January, and 1d more for spot delivery. Botany spinners are not finding a great deal of new business, as they are mostly booked up to the end of this year and manufacturers are not very willing to buy for 1916.

EXPORT OF CROSSBRED TOPS.

Those who are favoured with inside knowledge assert that the refusal of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce council to recommend the export of crossbred tops can quite easily be justified. On several occasions recently it has been suggested that Italy is not acting quite as she ought to do. It is pointed out that Italy is not at war with Germany, but with Austria, and, therefore, the other members of the Quadruple Alliance have no reason to remonstrate with Italy for allowing anything to go through Switzerland to Germany, as it is known that big weights of textile raw materials have done. There is a feeling in the trade to-day that Italy is not entirely to be trusted, and to a few it is more than a little disconcerting to find that licenses have been granted freely since the last London sales began for shipments of wool to our Mediterranean ally.

The qualities licensed have been in a large measure crossbreds, though fair weights of merinos have also been shipped. Merino tops and all decriptions of yarns have also been bought. Possibly the Italian Government has certified certain firms to be quite trustworthy. Perhaps the best plan would be to stop all exports to Italy for a time, including wool and yarns. To clothe her armies again this winter Germany will need tremendous weights of raw materials, and, though the amount that Italy can send through Switzerland may not be anything like sufficient, it is considered that it ought not to be allowed.

It is also asserted on good authority that there are 30,000 bales of German-owned wool in South America, which is equivalent to about 90,000 bales of Australian wool. Germany is also buying out there not really heavily, her chief desire being to make the Allies pay as much as possible. It is therefore regarded as necessary that neutral countries, and perhaps Italy also, should be closely watched, so that this South American wool is not transported to Germany indirectly.

MERINO TOPMAKERS' PROFITS.

Earlier in the year, when 64's were selling at 3s 9d, they could be made at 2s 9d, and last December they could even be made at 1s 8½d. Since July these extremes have gradually moved towards one another, and, while good warp tops have made steadily decreasing prices in Bradford, combing wool has appreciated in value in the wool markets of the world. The topmakers who make the best article are not necessarily making the best profit, as will be seen from the fact that a 64's top made out of burry pieces and bellies can be produced to-day at 2s 7d, whereas a really good article made out of shafty, fleece wool will cost the maker up to 3s 2d. The best classes of combing merinos at the last London sales were taken, not by topmakers, but by spinners and manufacturers, who must have superior length and spin in their tops. South-eastern South Australian wools, yielding 54 to 56 per cent., and selling at 19d, as well as Queensland wools selling at up to 19½d, would make the top cost anywhere from 38d to 39d. Topmakers cannot afford those prices, and do not regularly buy wool of such characteristics that its price is always at the market limit. Spinners and manufacturers are left to make the market for these wools.

THE TURNING POINT REACHED.

BRADFORD, Oct. 21.

There has certainly been more interest in merino tops during the past week, though it cannot be said that prices are really higher. The decline which has been in progress during recent weeks appears to have finished and there are not so many cheap spot lots about. No topmaker will willingly take less than 3s for 64's for new year delivery, and most of the big makers are asking 3s 1d to 3s 1½d for spot. There is still great difficulty at the combers, some firms being months behind with their deliveries. The army is still taking many of the workpeople, and several big combers foresee trouble and smaller output ahead.

France is inquiring for dry combed tops, particularly short merinos for hosiery purposes. There is a certain amount of Leicester demand for similar articles but in oil. The most interesting part of the market is no doubt the possibilities of export to Japan, who placed large orders in this country some months ago, which have been unexecuted because shipment was not allowed. Makers who sold to the Far East are ready to ship at the first sign of licenses coming through. Italy also is inquiring in a small way for merino tops though her chief demands are for khaki material. As soon as export is definitely licensed, it will be another case of all the world turning to Bradford for merino tops, and that is why many people seem to think that prices have touched the bottom for some time to come.

AMERICAN MILLS SECURE ITALIAN ARMY ORDERS.

There has been a good deal of controversy about this matter, and it must be admitted that the majority of people are not at all pleased that our Ally has seen fit to pass over the West Riding manufacturers in favour of the American. Looked at from one point of view it is extremely selfish to say that America has no right to these orders, in view of the fact that she is sending supplies in such large quantities to the Allies in many other ways. On the other hand we have to look to our own ends, and it has been suggested that an order for five million yards of military cloth amounts to a big figure, and at the rate of 6s 8d a yard, as reported here, will mean well over one and a half-million sterling crossing the Atlantic. A five-million yard order is not a daily occurrence, and it has some fairly far reaching effects. If the work had been placed in this country it would most probably have meant that the serious decline in crossbreds, both sliped and scoured, at the last London sales would not have taken place, as we calculate that roughly 20,000 bales of wool will be required for the work. Possibly America will be a buyer of slipes at the coming London sales, because of this order; but it must not be forgotten that there are some very big pullers or fellmongers in the United States.

CROSSBRED TOPMAKERS MORE CHEERFUL.

In ordinary times Bradford does a very large trade in crossbred tops with Italy, Sweden, and Holland, these countries together absorbing almost one-third of our exports of these materials. To-day they are all three badly in need of supplies, and Sweden and Holland, though not at war with Germany, are cut off from German and Belgian supplies which they have had in years past. They must have raw material from somewhere, so it is not surprising that a syndicate of Dutch manufacturers have sent a representative to South America who is operating in a fairly large way.

Probably our Allies have felt very much annoyed at being unable to operate in England, which has been the cheapest market of the world for crossbreds for several weeks, and the announcement of the War Office to the effect that export of crossbred tops would be allowed has given satisfaction both at home and abroad. If anything like normal quantities are allowed to be exported, this market is sure to undergo a distinct rise. Already Italy is inquiring here for fine crossbred tops and wool, and a good demand is expected also from the United States.

Topmakers are generally asking 1½d more than a week ago, though they naturally are asking a bigger advance than they can make. Probably the rise in real selling prices is no more than 1d. More business has certainly been done but it has mostly been the acceptance of offers made to users before the notice was published. Carded tops from 46's to 50's have so far experienced the best demand, prepared sorts not being very much wanted.

No doubt the raising of the embargo on crossbred tops will have some effect on other markets. It is generally expected that Italy will now be as free a buyer in this country as the supply of licenses will permit, and possibly Japan also may be in the market for crossbreds.

DAIRY SHOW.

AWARDS AND POINTS.

LONDON, Oct. 21.

At the National Dairy Show this week at Islington, Queensland showed, in the non-competitive classes, an interesting exhibit of the produce of that State. In the competitive classes there were no entries of colonial cheese or honey. And the butter staged was not in the quantity of previous years. Two Australasian exhibits were disqualified through being wrongly marked, that 's to say, they were slightly salted and labelled for the unsalted classes—probably by mistake. The maximum number of marks were:—Salted butter, flavour 55 points, texture 20, colour 10, salting 10, and packing 5, total 100. Unsalted, flavour 60, texture 25, colour 10, and packing 5, total 100. The following are the awards and the points of prize-takers, commendeds, and New South Wales exhibits:—

DROUGHT IN QUEENSLAND.

The Queensland Minister for Lands (Mr. J. M. Hunter), who arrived in Sydney yesterday, said that the drought in Queensland was a very bad one. "It is, I am sorry to say, almost, if not quite, as bad as the big drought in 1902," said Mr. Hunter, "and, generally speaking, the outlook is far from bright, unless rain comes soon."

PASTURES PROTECTION.

MOLONG, Saturday.

At the last meeting of the Molong Pastures Protection Board, Stock Inspector Finch reported that since the previous meeting he had travelled 335 miles, making 69 inspections. Rabbits did not appear to be increasing, though very little destructive work was being done by land-holders, and poison was not being taken by rabbits very well. Holders seemed to be relying mainly on trappers, being otherwise engaged themselves at hay-cutting and shearing. Good feed was in abundance throughout the district, and stock were in good condition. The crops also were in good condition, but a day's rain would be beneficial to the late crops. Ten holdings were adversely reported upon, and one prosecution was ordered. One letter was received from the Warialda Board, asking co-operation in advocating that the proclamation regarding the non-poisoning of rabbits within 10 miles of a railway, be repealed; but no action was taken.

LAND BALLOTS.

CONDOBOLIN.—A ballot took place last week before the Land Board for 26 homestead blocks in the parishes of Milbee and Puulligal, county of Gipps. The following were the results:—Parish of Milbee, portion 16, 869 acres, John Archibald Rankin Hume; portion 23, 698 acres, George Malcolm Parfrey; portion 17, 812 acres, John Martin Thornber; portion 19, 805 acres, Charles William M'Clay; portion 15, 968 acres, Thomas Storm; portion 20, 1373 acres, Murray Were Sheppard. Parish of Puulligal, portion 17, 862 acres, William George Gilbert; portion 18, 779 acres, John Thomas M'Cubben; portion 27, 27 acres, Justern Roy M'Iver; portion 22, 769 acres, Peter Francis M'Iver. There were 11 applicants for the 26 blocks, the choice of one applicant being exhausted.

BUTTER FACTORIES.

NOWRA.—The Nowra Co-operative Dairy Company, Ltd., have furnished a return, showing that 278,538lb of butter were manufactured between September 1 and November 24, 1913, and that 359,727lb were manufactured in the same period of 1914, and 303,513lb in the same period in 1915.

FLYING FOX RAVAGES.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

The fruit is fair when compared with last season's heavy crop. The trees are looking splendid, the drought having apparently not affected them, though flying foxes are doing much damage to early peaches, which it is expected they will have destroyed before there is one fit for the market. The appearance of the foxes was notably early. They are eating apples only the size of marbles, and have done much damage.

DUNGOG, Sunday.

Flying foxes are playing great havoc with all kinds of fruit throughout the district, and it is expected that there will be very little left for the orchardists. The pest is in greater numbers than in previous years, and although various means of destruction are practised, the numbers do not appear to diminish. At the last meeting of the Bandon Grove branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association it was decided to ask the Government for a grant for the purchase of ammunition for their destruction.

THE HARVEST.

INVERELL.—Stripping all round is now general, and the yields are very varied. The highest yield so far is from Hamilton's farm, Delungra, where 15 bags have been gathered. This is one of the early crops. The late ones are yielding as low as two bags, whilst in many cases stock have been turned in.

WHEAT SHIPMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Hagelthorn) announced yesterday that Messrs. J. Darling and Sons, James Bell and Co., L. Dreyfus and Co., and F. W. Prell and Co. had been appointed as wheat-buying and forwarding agents for Victoria, under the wheat-pooling scheme. The Minister added that another agent, and possibly two other agents, would be appointed in the course of a day or two.

NORTH COAST.

SHORTAGE OF FODDER.

LISMORE, Sunday.

Dry weather still prevails over the greater part of the district. Some rain from thunderstorms has fallen in isolated parts, but the drought still obtains over a large area. The condition is desperate. There are loud complaints regarding the insufficiency of fodder available, and merchants complain of the stuff being short-shipped at Sydney, whilst Government fodder is coming forward in large quantities.

In connection with the Government scheme for the distribution of fodder under extended terms of payment, 36 applications have been received so far at Lismore, representing 20 tons of lucerne, 26 tons of chaff, 15½ tons of bran.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BERRIGAN.—Speaking at a meeting of farmers at Berrigan, Mr. E. J. Gorman stated that there was an almost unanimous feeling in the cities that the farmers were all making fortunes, and all they had to do was to sleep and the crops grew of their own accord. Thus it was that they had very little sympathy with the man on the land. The people in the cities needed enlightening as to the hardships undergone year by year by the farmers.

CULCAIRN.—Haymaking is in full swing, and some excellent results are being achieved. The average should be about two tons to the acre, and the quality is excellent. The oats crop is splendid, and will yield about 40 bushels to the acre. In some paddocks "take all" is showing amongst the wheat, and on some arms it has affected the yield considerably. It is also prevalent along many centres on the Culcairn-Corowa line. It seems to be felt more in the lighter types of land, particularly when they have been worked in dry condition or fallowed late and subsequently overworked. It is reported from Brocklesby that in one fine-looking area there is not a head of grain to be seen, and the crop was one of the finest in the district, and promised to go eight to ten bags. However, this is not general.

MEAT EXPORT TRADE.

LONDON, Oct. 21.

At Smithfield beef and mutton have been making more money. States chilled hinds of beef are 5/6 to 5/10; fores, 4/4 to 4/6; States frozen hinds, 4/8 to 4/10, and fores, 3/8 to 3/10; South American chilled hinds, 5/4 to 5/8, fores, 4/3 to 4/4; Australian frozen hinds, 4/ to 4/8, crops, 3/8 to 4/4; New Zealand frozen hinds, 4/ to 5/, and fores 3/4 to 4/; New Zealand frozen mutton is 4/8 to 5/1, and ewes, 3/11 to 4/2; Australian, 3/7 to 4/2; South American, 4/ to 4/7; New Zealand lamb is 5/ to 5/7; Australian, 4/6 to 5/3; South American, 4/8 to 5/3; some South African frozen hinds of beef have brought 3/8 to 4/4, and fores 3/2 to 3/3; and Brazilian hinds, 4/2 to 4/4, and 3/4 fores.

A "Times" cable (as to Argentine meat shipments), dated Buenos Ayres, October 14, says:—Exports of frozen and chilled beef to the United Kingdom have been fair for the past week, reaching 90,000 quarters, including 30,000 to London and 60,000 to the rest of the United Kingdom. Since January 1 the shipments to the United Kingdom reach 3,083,000 quarters against 3,454,000 quarters for the corresponding period last year. Mutton exports were 6000 carcases to London, making the season's total 734,000 carcases, against 1,461,000 a year ago. Of lamb only 1000 carcases were shipped, all to London, making for the season 256,000 carcases to the United Kingdom, against last year, same period, 804,000. There were no shipments to the United States during the week.

AUSTRALIAN PRODUCE ABROAD.

COPRA.

LONDON, Oct. 21.

Copra is slightly irregular. South Sea has buyers, £24/10/ c.i.f. London.

RAISINS.

Valencia raisins are dear, but it is expected that heavy arrivals from California and Australia, about the end of November, will relieve the position to some extent.

FUR.

At the fur sales rates opened with a firm tone and advanced prices were paid for Australian opossum, wallaby, red fox, and house cat, with tanners' wallaby well sustained and ringtail showing but slight easiness.

TALLOW.

This week a very firm tone has prevailed, and the lots left unsold at last week's auctions have been cleared at advancing rates. At yesterday's sales 1730 casks were offered and 1518 sold at rates which showed an improvement of 6d to 1s. The following are the quotations for Australasian sorts:—Mutton, fine 39/9; fair to good 38/6 to 39/6, dark to dull 34/6 to 36/3, hard 38/6; beef, sweet 40/, fine 39/6, fair to good 37/6 to 38/3, dark to dull 34/ to 36/.

RABBIT SKINS.

At the auctions of Australasian rabbit skins, held last week, there was a moderate supply. Demand was good, and a considerably better clearance could have been effected if prohibitive limits had not been imposed on several parcels. Quotations generally showed an advance of 1d per lb on those ruling in August, well-furred skins being the most easily salable. Of 1907 bales offered, 1447 sold at following prices per lb:—New Zealand, fairly to well-furred, 1/8 to 2/2; fairly furred, 1/1 to 1/5½; low in fur, 8d to 11½d; suckers, small and wormy, 2½d to 6d. Tasmanian and Australian, fairly furred, 1/ to 1/5½; low in fur, 3½d to 10½d; suckers, small and wormy, 2½d to 5d.

HIDES AND SKINS.

At last week's public sales of hides and skins, 6558 salted ox and cow hides, 2573 salted calf skins, 2837 dry-salted ox and cow hides, 794 dry-salted yearlings, 1009 buffalo hides, and 11,730 salted sheep pelts offered, but none sold.

RABBITS.

Frozen rabbits have continued to make record prices, and last week as much as 30/ was paid for large New Zealands. Such prices, however, restrict demand, and there is now a weaker tendency. For supplies expected at the end of the month, 24/6 to 25/6 per case, ex ship, for Sydney blue large, is being asked.

LEATHER.

A small offering of 10 rolls of Australasian leather at the last sales was not dealt in, but of 32 bales New Zealand basils 21 sold. Wellington bests brought 17d, seconds 13d, and 1st greasy 14½d per lb.

CHEESE.

The cheese market is firm, and Canadian is now selling at from 80/ to 82/ for white, and about 82/ up to as high as 84/ for coloured. There is now very little New Zealand cheese on offer, and the next arrival will be in the Rotorua. A fair quantity of New Zealand cheese has been contracted for by buyers in this country for the season's make, that is to say, from October or November to April and (or) May, at prices ranging from 77/ to 81/ c.i.f. London, and (or) West Coast ports.

GREECE AND THE ALLIES.

Although the latest cables from Greece are gravely disappointing, they will not surprise anyone who has closely followed the manoeuvres of King Constantine and his Ministers. The German Court and its agents are obviously making a last desperate effort to attach the Greek army to their cause, and to induce it to threaten the Allies before they have secured themselves, either by a retreat or by reinforcements. To this end they are employing all their familiar methods. There is a report that large forces have been despatched from the western front to Servia, and another that Austria contemplates the immediate reduction of Montenegro. The first is given in so much detail that it seems to be intended to deceive, and is difficult to reconcile with the contemporaneous passage of troops from east to west. The second reminds us of the proverbial description of Montenegro as a country so brave that a small army cannot conquer it, and so poor that a large army must starve in it. Beside these two reports we must place the threat of the Munich papers that the Servian army will be pursued into Greece, and the boast of the Bulgarian general that he will soon have leisure to annihilate the Allies. Unfortunately, in addition to these threats, the pro-Germans have some facts to rely upon. The French bulletin describes a movement which must have been forced upon them by a successful Bulgarian advance. They are still in a position chosen by themselves, but they may at any moment be compelled to retreat into Greece. The British troops have taken longer to arrive than was anticipated, if we may believe the statement that the first important reinforcements were landed at the end of the last week. The Russians are still concentrated on the Danube, with a strip of Roumanian territory between them and their enemies. In these facts and reports the German agents in Greece would find splendid material with which to impress the King and his Ministers. They seem to have had little influence on popular opinion, which still retains its affection for France, and has recently been converted into respect for Great Britain. But obviously they have so far affected the King and the Prime Minister that they are both desperately anxious to invent some formula which will temporarily satisfy the Allies without giving permanent offence to Germany.

The exact nature of the Allies' demands has not yet been disclosed. They include more than the right to land and disembark at Salonica. They naturally put the Servian army in the same category as the French and British. Probably they included the right to land elsewhere in Greece, and to march through Greek territory. It is probably with a view to the definition of some zone in which the Allies might conduct their operations and carry on their hospital work that M. Scouloudis has proposed to refer all questions in dispute to a conference of military experts. But a conference, whatever its object, is not what the Allies want. They need positive guarantees in view of an immediate need. They may wish to retreat in Greece. They may wish to retire from Salonica and land elsewhere. In any case, they keep the power of the fleet before the Greek people. The position of a Minister in the dilemma presented to M. Scouloudis is not an enviable one, assuming that he has decided to ignore any treaty obligations. If he attacks the forces of the Central Powers or allows his neutrality to be compromised any further, his country is threatened with the sufferings of Belgium; if he resists the Allies his coasts are threatened, his trade will be ruined, and his island possessions lost. For the Allies, however, there is no difficulty of choice. They have to reinforce their armies with all possible speed. At the same time they must prepare to attack Greece with their fleet. It seems a thousand pities that Greece was allowed to secure provisions before her army was mobilised. We may be confident that if the decision of the Ministry remains any longer in doubt the blockade will be reimposed in the strictest form possible.

Another angle from which the Central Powers may impress neutrals is revealed in the speech of the Emperor to his troops in the East. He gives them the assurance that he gave the Queen of Greece four months ago, and later on to a deputation of bankers. Occasionally, as on the Hohenzollern anniversary, the Emperor has hinted at a long and arduous struggle to come. But generally he answers all doubts by the promise of an early peace and of great rewards. Obviously the Allies cannot approach the neutrals with any such promises. Their hopes of victory are founded on the strongest foundations, on immense reserves of men, on stores of munitions, and on the control of the seas. But they have no conquered territories to compare with Belgium and Poland and Servia, no such exhibitions of superior strength as the two campaigns of Hindenberg and Mackensen. Lord Kitchener would no doubt explain the real strength of the Allies to the Greek Cabinet. Possibly his visit may so co-ordinate the strength of the Allies as to prevent any repetition of the failure which gave the Central Powers their opportunity for an uninterrupted advance. If he can translate the rumours of an Italian advance through Albania into fact the Allies may immediately effect the surprise which the cables tell us has already been planned. The consequences of delay have already proved too serious to allow us to put any trust in promises or in strength in the wrong place. Already we hear of fresh supplies of artillery at Gallipoli. Our soldiers have attacked them as they will deal with any other weapons sent against them. But we shall all look anxiously for the military and political movements which will enable the Allies to interrupt the communications by which these supplies are sent and so throw the Turks back on their own dwindling resources.

WAR BILLIONS.

British finance, French finance, the finance of our enemies, and our own Commonwealth finance as it applies to the war, are all at the moment of the deepest interest to Australians. It would be vain, indeed, for the Commonwealth to trouble about making preparations for the despatch of another 50,000 men to the front were British finance in a tottering state. It would be even useless if our valiant ally across the Channel were unable to finance her millions of men in the field, for although Britain is prepared to bear a heavy burden to defeat Germany's barbaric "kultur" there must be some limit to her ability to provide her allies with money, and with munitions which cost money. Then there is the position in Australia. Sir Charles Mackellar, president of the Bank of New South Wales, recently addressed shareholders confidently rather than optimistically, and therefore convincingly. We must, he said, husband our local strength to the utmost, avoid waste and extravagance, public and private. If we bear that in mind all will be well. Is our chief enemy in such good heart financially? We have every reason to think not. Germany is making no effort to maintain a sound system of finance. She is playing her old game of bluff, and depending on the Allies being compelled one day to pay an indemnity large beyond all precedent to put things right. But if there be no indemnity, what then? Financial chaos that will engulf the whole nation and its Allies in a generation of penury must ensue.

Take the position of these countries one by one. First there is Britain, which has with more or less ease obtained all the money she needs to finance her own unprecedented war expenditure, as well as that of her necessitous Allies and her dominions. Long before British money runs short the supply of German men will be exhausted, asserted the Chancellor of the Exchequer in a recent cable. He then informs us that he is securing 370 millions per annum from taxation alone, and that despite the heaviest loan operations that the world has ever seen. Every "scrap of paper" issued by the British Government is convertible on demand into gold at the Bank of England. What a record! Where is there another country that could equal such a performance? There is none; there never has been one since history began. Now let us turn to our heroic ally, France, who so far has managed to finance her army by temporary expedients, and only now, after fifteen months of war, has at length asked her people for a loan. Nobly are the saving peasantry, the economical trading class, as well as those of more substantial means, responding to the call. According to latest advices, it is expected that a thousand millions sterling or more will be subscribed for what General Joffre describes as a "loan of victory" contrasting it with the "loan of liberation" after the conflict of 1870, which up to that time was the most remarkable effort of the French people.

Now let us turn to our enemies. As far as Austria-Hungary, Turkey, and Bulgaria are concerned they are in a financial sense negligible. They are mere drains upon Germany's financial resources, and heavy and insistent drains they must have been. It is to Germany that we must look if we are to attempt to judge of the relative staying power of our enemies as against ourselves. Dr. Helfferich, the Imperial Finance Minister, let a flood of light upon the position in a speech he recently delivered in the Reichstag, when he asked for and obtained a further war credit of £1,000,000,000, making £2,000,000,000 since the war broke out. He showed that no attempt was being made to provide for even the interest on this huge sum at present. "During the war," said Dr. Helfferich, "we will not increase the gigantic burdens of the people by new taxations." The meaning of this is clear. As the revenue of Germany is altogether inadequate, even in normal times, to meet the added burdens, it follows that interest will have to be paid out of further loans. It is on all fours with the man who raises money on a promissory note, spends the proceeds, and when the interest becomes due floats another note. The process can be continued till one day the crash comes, but come it must. Nothing less than a windfall could save the situation. This is precisely what the German Finance Minister is relying on, for did he not tell members of the Reichstag that "the heavy burden may be borne through decades by the instigators of the war, but not by us." But suppose the world finds that Germans were the instigators, and suppose events prove that, after all, on this occasion might and right are in the same hands, and those not German, what will then happen to the deluded people of the Fatherland who are being taught that "all available money belongs, not to its private owners, but to the State?" German publicists used to say "we shall win," now they say "we must win," and if they are to avoid national bankruptcy they are right. For them losing means nothing short of absolute and irretrievable ruin.

MOTOR CARS.

TO MEET THE WOUNDED.

A transport with a large number of sick and wounded men aboard is expected to reach Sydney this morning. The Red Cross Society has called up the motor cars on its register, numbered 108 to 173 inclusive, and has requested that they be in waiting at No. 1 Woolloomooloo wharf at 9 a.m.

BEER GARDENS.

"DEAD AS A DOOR-NAIL."

It was recently stated that the Beer Gardens scheme that the State Cabinet had before it had been practically dropped, and that the matter had resolved itself into a question of a teetotal institution or nothing at all.

Inquiries on Saturday as to when the committee of Ministers that had the matter in hand would bring up its report elicited from a member of the Cabinet that he understood the whole thing had now been definitely dropped. "It is, as dead as a door-nail," he added.

LIVERPOOL CAMP.

DISTURBANCE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

The following official statement has been made by the District Commandant:—

"A disturbance, which at no time assumed serious proportions, is reported as having occurred at Liverpool on Friday evening over an attempt to pass the sentries on the bridge without a proper leave pass.

"Practically every man in camp, and they number several thousands, was attracted, stones were thrown, and three or four police tents were set alight.

"The number of men actually concerned in the trouble was very small, probably not more than a couple of dozen, though the excitement and the desire to see the fun were general.

"Small injuries were caused by the stone throwing, chiefly to onlookers.

"A board sat on Saturday to investigate the occurrence, and its report is expected today."

EXILED SAMOANS.

AN ISLAND ROMANCE.

LARGE PARTY REPATRIATED.

The steamer Tambo, which arrived from a long island trading cruise yesterday, brought a party of 58 Samoans, who were exiled some years ago by the German Government, and are now being repatriated. There were 64 Samoans when the party embarked—37 males and 27 females—but the chief Lauiki, on account of a severe illness, had to be left behind with his family on the run to Sydney at Tarawa, in the Gilbert Islands. They are, if the chief is then well enough, to come on by the next boat calling at this port.

The party came from Saipan, the southernmost of the Marianne or Ladrone islands, and by the time they reach their native shores, which will be about three weeks hence, they will have been five months on their journey, including a stay of three months at Jaluit, in the Marshall Islands.

The story of the banishment and repatriation of the Samoans is something in the nature of a romance. The opening scene occurred eight years ago, when Dr. Solf was governor. The offence—if it can be so called—for which Lauiki and about 10 others, with their wives and dependents, were exiled, was that they wished to know in what manner the taxes levied on the natives by the Germans in Samoa were spent. This audacity on the part of the natives was not to be tolerated for one minute in a German possession, and Dr. Solf determined to make a stern example. There was a German warship in port, about to leave for Saipan, and the opportunity was seized for deporting the malcontents. It has always been said in Samoa, however, that the real reason for the action of the German authorities was that Lauiki and the others were known to have friendly feelings toward the British.

When the New Zealand forces occupied Samoa, and British rule was re-established, a strong wish was expressed to the Administrator that the expatriated Samoans should be brought back, and it was suggested that if this were done it would have a markedly good effect on the islanders, and be an object-lesson to them of the British sense of fairness. So the Administrator suggested that the New Zealand Government should invoke the assistance of the Commonwealth Government in joint representations with a view to effecting repatriation. The project was not one as easy of accomplishment as one might think. The first steps were taken about this time last year. Early in January the Governor of New Zealand communicated with the Governor-General of the Commonwealth asking "Whether it is possible for the Federal Government to arrange for these Samoans being brought from their place of exile to a port in Australia?" The Marianne group was at that time occupied by the Japanese, and the Governor-General suggested that application should be made to the Japanese authorities. This necessitated communications with the British Government, and messages to the British Ambassador in Tokio, and finally arrangements were made in July for a Japanese naval transport to convey the Samoans to Jaluit. There they stayed till the Tambo arrived. After leaving Jaluit the Tambo proceeded to the Gilbert and Ellice islands.

Dr. B. C. N. O'Reilly, senior medical officer in the Gilbert and Ellice groups, who travelled with the party from the Gilbert Islands to Sydney, said that they were all enthusiastically British. They had good reasons for disliking the Germans, who treated them very badly. "They're a very nice lot of people," the doctor remarked. "A most intense love for their own islands characterises all Samoans, and these people were quite heart-broken out on Saipan, but are full of joy now at the prospect of so soon beholding the shores of their own beautiful land."

The only member of the party who speaks English is a young fellow named George, and he does so imperfectly. This is how he told his story: "We been eight years away. Oh, it is so long time from our own country. We think everybody forget us, and we never go back. We so very sad. One day Japanese warship come to Saipan and haul down German flag and put up Japanese. We know not why. We very excited. We ask, but no one understand. I speak English to every Japanese I see, and by and bye one answer me, and tell me about the war. We glad. I said, 'Will you send us back?' He said, 'That is Britain's business.' It takes so long we think everybody forget us. One day Japanese ship come along and tell us Britain send for us, and take us all to Jaluit. We so glad. We laugh, we cry, we jump with joy." Arrangements have been made for their accommodation in Sydney till the steamer departs by the New Zealand Government Agent, Mr. W. R. Blow.

The Rev. Dr. Brown spent several hours aboard the Tambo yesterday, and conducted a religious service. The Samoans will remain in Sydney till Wednesday week, when they will leave for Apia by the Atua.

BUTTER FAMINE.

TROUBLE IN THE SUBURBS.

During the week-end many householders in outlying suburbs were unable to obtain butter.

Mr. Hall has asked the Butter advisory Board to meet him this afternoon, and advise him as to what steps should be taken to cope with the situation. It is anticipated that all export will immediately cease.

In its weekly report Prescott, Ltd. states:—"During the early part of the week grocers were able to fill the shortage of local butter by taking Victorian; but at the end of the week, on account of the higher price in Melbourne, this help was not available, and as a result there was a shortage to the extent of about 25 per cent. of the market requirements. There is an application before the Necessary Commodities Commission for an advance in prices."

CITY RAILWAY.

CIRCULAR QUAY STATION.

Alterations are being made in the plans of the City Railway as far as the Circular Quay overhead, or "daylight," station is concerned.

As the scheme was put before Parliament, the Circular Quay station was shown more or less following the contour of the retaining wall. It has now been found necessary to bring the station more towards the Customs-house to get a straight run across from the direction of Government House grounds, where the railway will emerge from the earth. It is now officially stated that this alteration in route will make it necessary for the Government to pull down the comparatively new six-story building occupied by the Sydney Harbour Trust as offices, and the adjoining Metropolitan Brigade Fire Station. The space will be occupied by the bridge that will carry the overhead lines. In the end this diversion will save other resumptions, and will enable the line to strike the Rocks area at a point which will be more convenient for tunnelling.

The railway is to be constructed under the Norton Griffiths agreement, and the Public Works Department state that it is likely that portion of the suburban system may be taken in hand simultaneously with it.

WAR TIME IN LONDON

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Critical Days.

LONDON, Oct. 21.

Britain's war barometer of this week makes unpleasant reading. "Unsettled to stormy" will, perhaps, describe it. Politically, all the signs point to acute trouble in the Cabinet, both on the subject of compulsory service and on that of the Balkan campaign. The first of these disputed questions—known to involve the future of several Ministers—may yet be amicably, if only temporarily, bridged over by Lord Derby's great new recruiting effort on voluntary lines. The Balkan campaign, in respect of which the French Government also is in difficulties—and to the extent of the loss of M. Delcasse, no less—has already brought about the resignation of Sir Edward Carson. It may yet bring about still more serious things. The country is obviously befogged as to the real facts of the matter. It knows now that British diplomacy, believing the best, but apparently ill-informed, moved too weakly and too slowly against German methods, which in secret had achieved their desired results months ago. It does not know how far the activities now in hand can save the situation. Still less does it know how those activities can operate powerfully enough without harm to the position on the western front. Thus perplexed, by the signs and portents of a Government divided against itself, and by the sudden new and critical responsibilities in the near East, the British public has now sustained a further shock by the recall of Sir Ian Hamilton from the Dardanelles. What that may mean no one yet knows. We are hoping, however—Australians especially are hoping—that the appointment of General Monro to the command means that the Gallipoli campaign will go on while a chance remains to it. But just now, with all this confusion about us, one can only repeat that this week's barometer reads, "Unsettled to stormy." Barometers, though, are as certain to rise as to fall. The Briton, a placidly hopeful creature, has not quite lost his faith that the skies will clear.

Commonwealth Office Changes.

Report has it that the impending retirement of Sir George Reid will be made the occasion of changes in the staff of the High Commissioner's Office. If that is so—even if it is not so—the time seems ripe for mention of the claim of Sydney to some or other representation in an Australian department, which, at present, is almost exclusively Melbournian, both in its experience and in its outlook. It is, of course, impossible to forget that Melbourne is the seat of government, and that all the official business of Australia must of necessity issue thence. But that is no reason why the permanent officials of the Commonwealth Office in London should be gentlemen in whose ears the affairs of Melbourne are as resounding thunder, while the affairs of Sydney are no more than rumour of a pleasant but otherwise negligible place. There is no malice in it. On the contrary, the Commonwealth Office staff is never less than genial. But it has no adequate grip of Sydney. Many of its members have not so much as seen Sydney. Others of them may, years ago, have looked in upon us casually, but that never more than hazy memory of us was obliterated long since by the importance of Melbourne, source and sustenance of Commonwealth affairs—and of their own. Sydney, indeed, would be mightily surprised if it knew how inferior is Sydney's part in the official statement of Australia in London. The Commonwealth Office should undoubtedly contain a representative Sydney civil servant; if for no other reason, for the reason that visitors from New South Wales to London are entitled to find at the official headquarters someone with an adequate knowledge of their State and its capital city.

Australian Hospital at Wimereux.

This splendid Australian contribution to war service is faced just now by a financial problem. It is not in need of immediate assistance. Its resources will suffice for five or six months to come. But they will not suffice if the war should last beyond that period. There should be no need to urge that the one Australian hospital in France must continue its work until the end. That responsibility is obvious, and it is the more a responsibility in that Wimereux has established itself as an outstanding success. Supported by Australian gifts, and staffed by Australian doctors and Australian nurses, it has played a noble part in the alleviation of war suffering ever since September of last year, to the very great honour of Australian skill and Australian generosity. As is well-known, the situation of Wimereux, just outside Boulogne, is so near to the western battle-line that every engagement there means a new stream of wounded in the care of this little group of Australians. By now they have treated over 8000 patients. Recent visitors to the hospital have included Queen Amalie of Portugal, Princess Louise, and Field-Marshal Grenfell, all of whom have expressed their admiration for what has been done and is being done. Doubtless the necessary channels for Australian subscriptions will be made known locally. This note merely sets out to say that if it is to be maintained until the end of the war Wimereux will need the further generous help of Australians.

The Last Ditch.

Lord Derby has now explained the great recruiting scheme by grace of which the voluntary system of Britain is to stand or fall. It is already in operation, and it is to be completely tried out by November 30. In brief, the method is that of the election canvass—on a grand scale. Political agents of all parties will, indeed, be among the active canvassers, not this time for the votes of men, but for the men themselves. The recruiting sergeant thus gives way to civilian recruiters. These will be supplied with the famous "pink forms"—which now turn out to be not pink forms at all, but blue cards—on which are names of all men between the ages of 18 and 41. The names of those who are already engaged in munition or other work held to be indispensable are "starred." Every unstarred man will be personally approached, and urged to enrol himself. It is estimated that, excluding the workers in the various avocations which must be carried on, there are one and three-quarter millions of eligible men, of whom one and a quarter million should be physically fit. Lord Kitchener is understood to need 500,000 recruits at once. The representatives of the Labour organisations are pledged to the scheme, and express themselves as confident of its result. By this time, at any rate, the workers know that Lord Derby's great canvass of the country is voluntaryism's last ditch. He has instructed the recruiters to use no more than courteous persuasion. But even courteous persuasion has now a sting in it. This, namely, "If you don't come, you will be fetched."

Recruiting Posters.

The picture poster, with which London has been placarded in almost interminable variety, appears to have exhausted its eloquence. At any rate, it is being replaced by the word direct. Even the underground railway companies, pastmasters in the art of beautiful and effective advertisements by picture, are vehemently out this week with recruiting posters that are not pictures at all, but gravely measured words. They cannot be escaped. They are in every one of the scores of tube and other underground stations. Their beautiful printing and production make arresting effect in hundreds of centres of London transit. Thus Titus Manlius Torquatus, who spoke in the Roman Senate B.C. 216, when Hannibal had overthrown the Roman legions, speaks again to London:—"While in freedom and safety show your affection for your country; nay, rather do so while it is your country and you its citizens—and," continues the poster, "Carthage fell in B.C. 146." Then there is this from George Washington: "Our conflict is not likely to cease so soon as every good man could wish. The measure of iniquity is not yet filled; and unless we can return a little more to first principles, and act a little more upon patriotic grounds, I do not know when it will or what may be the issue of the contest." And this from Sir Humphrey Gilbert to Queen Elizabeth and the Privy Council: "Give me leave, therefore, without offence, always to live and die in this mind; that he is not worthy to live at all that for fear of or danger of death shunneth his country's service and his own honour, seeing that death is inevitable and the fame of virtue immortal." And this from William Pitt: "His Majesty's Ministers seem now determined upon rousing the spirit of the country. After the proper views of this country shall be made known, and after its dangers shall be fully understood, I am sure that no man in this hour of peril, unless from motives such as he dare not avow." The battles of Trafalgar (1805) and Waterloo (1815) were, says the poster, the answers to this appeal.

GREECE.

ANOTHER NOTE

FROM THE ALLIES.

RUSSIA'S ARMY.

DARDANELLES.

A FRENCH ATTACK.

The "Corriere della Sera" (Milan) says the Roumanians are enormously impressed by Russia's concentrations, believing that the Russians have 500,000 men and 2000 guns ready.

The Allied Ministers have handed the Greek Premier a Note defining material dispositions expected of Greece in conformity with the previous agreement.

After the receipt of the Note the Premier conferred with the King and the Cabinet met. It was stated later that the Allies' optimism had weakened.

An Athens message states that the Servians have captured Krushevo (25 miles north of Monastir).

German newspapers state that the Austro Germans will soon commence a vigorous campaign in Montenegro.

According to an arrival from Petrograd, Russia hopes to put in the field in the spring 7,000,000 troops, including 1,000,000 cavalry and 10,000 pieces of artillery.

On Wednesday and Thursday French artillery in the Dardanelles effectively bombarded heavy Turkish guns.

An Austrian communique says that desperate fighting continues around Gorizia (26 miles (north-west of Trieste).

The Germans used asphyxiating gas in the Forges-Bethincourt sector (about nine and a half miles north-west of Verdun). "Their infantry attack," the French communique continues "was stopped by our curtains of fire the moment it began."

GALLIPOLI.

FRENCH BOMBARD.

TURKISH HEAVY GUNS.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

A French communique states: Our artillery in the Dardanelles on Wednesday and Thursday effectively bombarded heavy Turkish guns. Large numbers of wounded Turks recently arrived in Constantinople.

It is reported from Athens that revolutionary proclamations have been distributed among the Turkish army. The railways are placarded, appealing to the soldiers in the name of God to turn their weapons against the Government, which is leading the country on to the brink of an abyss.

A GALLANT AIRMAN.

Flight-Commander Smyth Pigott, who has been awarded the D.S.O., on the night of November 13 volunteered to attack the bridge at Kuleli Burgas. This great bridge crossing the Maritsa River carries the only railway connecting Constantinople with Dede Agatch and Sofia. Flight-Commander Smyth Pigott located the bridge by the moonlight shining on the river, and descended within three hundred feet before releasing his bombs. The Turks fired heavily, but despite trouble with his engine, which commenced before he reached the bridge, he returned safely after a four hours' flight.

TURKISH REPORT.

A Turkish communique states:—Our artillery near Anafarta and Ariburnu destroyed some enemy machine guns and some bomb-throwers' positions, and also killed many of the enemy who were sheltering near the landing-place at Ariburnu. We occupied on Thursday a great part of the hostile trenches near Ariburnu. A big gun near Anafarta, directed upon our position at Kiretch-tepeh, was successfully brought under fire and the gun-crew killed.

The Central News Agency's Athens correspondent says that 105,000 Austro-German troops and many heavy batteries are traversing Bulgaria for Constantinople.

PERSIA.

ENEMY MINISTERS LEAVE.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

The Paris "Journal" states that Munich advices report that the Austro-German and Turkish Ministers left Teheran hastily to avoid the crowd lynching them.

WESTERN FRONT.

GERMANS USE GAS.

NEAR VERDUN.

INFANTRY ATTACK REPULSED.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The following French communique has been issued:—

The enemy threw three successive clouds of asphyxiating gas in the Forges-Bethincourt sector (about 9½ miles north-west of Verdun. Thereafter there was a violent bombardment. Our curtains of fire stopped the infantry the moment the attack began.

SIR JOHN FRENCH'S REPORT.

Sir John French reports:—Our artillery successfully bombarded many portions of the German trenches during the past four days, destroying wire entanglements and making gaps in the trench parapets. The enemy made little reply, though hostile artillery was active northward of Albert, Loos, and Ploegsteert, and east of Ypres.

The enemy on the evening of the 22nd made a heavy bomb attack on our position in the big mine crater south of Bethune, on the La Bassee-road, but the attack was repulsed. Mining is constant everywhere.

ALLIED AIR RAID.

It is reported from Amsterdam that an allied air raid on Thursday destroyed a railway bridge over the Scheldt, near Oudenarde, on the Courtrai-Brussels railway.

Twenty-three aeroplanes on the 25th successfully bombed a German hut encampment eastward of Albert. The enemy replied with a single aeroplane, dropping six bombs at Bray.

THE ARMENIANS.

BUTCHERED BY TURKS.

LORD BRYCE'S INQUIRIES.

Lord Bryce, in a letter to the newspapers, says the latest evidence of atrocities in northern and eastern Anatolia confirms with dreadful certainty the horrible story. The civilised world is powerless to intervene at present, but it must bear these unspeakable crimes in constant memory against the final day of reckoning.

A careful estimate of the loss of life to August 15 is over 500,000. The Turkish police are constantly using whips and clubs. Many women are black and blue. A correspondent at Tiflis states that Djevdet Bey expelled the Armenians from Van, and many fled southward. Eight thousand soldiers, whom he called "the Butcher Battalion," massacred most of the Christians in Jairt, the soldiers being ordered to burn two Armenian Bishops in the public square.

The Turks in Mush early in July disarmed the Armenians. In order to secure a large ransom, notables in the town and head men of villages were subjected to revolting tortures. Their fingernails, then their toenails, were forcibly extracted. Their teeth were knocked out, and in some cases their noses were whittled, the victims dying after lingering agonies.

The Armenians in Mush then entrenched themselves in churches and stone-built houses, and fought for four days; but the Turkish artillery, manned by German officers, broke down the positions. Every man was killed. The Moslem rabble then descended on the Armenian women and children, and drove them into large camps. The ghastly scene is incredible, but is confirmed beyond doubt. The Turks set fire to large wooden sheds in Alijan, Mograkom, Chaskegh, and other villages, roasting the helpless women and children to death.

Many went and threw their children away, some knelt down and prayed amid the flames, others shrieked for help, but the executioners were unmoved. With unparalleled savagery they grasped the infants by one leg, and hurled them into the fire, calling out to the burning mothers: "Here are your cubs."

Thirty thousand Turks and Kurds surrounded 1500 hill country Sahun and mountaineers, who put up a desperate struggle. Men, women, and children fought with knives and scythes, and rolled blocks of stone down steep slopes. During the final hand-to-hand combat, the women were seen thrusting knives at the throats of the Turks. When every man had been killed, several young women, some with infants in their arms, threw themselves from the rocks to avoid capture.

GERMAN WARSHIPS.

HOW THEY GOT SUPPLIES.

ELABORATE PREPARATIONS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

At the trial of the directors of the Hamburg-America Shipping Company on a charge of violating American neutrality, the master of the Norwegian steamer Nepos gave evidence that he carried supplies from Philadelphia in August, 1914, bound for Monrovia (West Africa), to supply the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse; but the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was sunk in the meantime by the Highflyer. The captain later sold the supplies to a British cruiser.

The Nepos before she met the British warships lay for five months idle at Teneriffe.

Other similar non-neutral expeditions, showing that Germany had made elaborate preparations to supply warships from American ports, were described in evidence.

MUNITIONS.

ALLIED ORGANISATION.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

A French official wireless states that, at a conference held in London, representatives of the four Allies instituted a permanent organisation for the manufacture of munitions.

The Paris "Journal" interviewed M. Thomas (French Minister of Munitions), who said that each delegate to the London Munitions Conference submitted his own country's requirements. M. Thomas then outlined the scheme adopted, which included the creation of a central office, at which each of the Allies' programmes will be known and discussed. The office will centralise all matters relating to guns, munitions, and raw material.

KING GEORGE.

King George is able to move about and it is expected his Majesty will be able to perform usual public duties within three weeks.

THE BALKANS.

FURIOUS BATTLES.

ALLIES' NOTE TO GREECE

OPTIMISM WEAKENS.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The "Daily Mail's" Salonica correspondent states that the French have retaken the offensive and captured a majority of the positions lost on the Krivolak-Rajec line. The Bulgarians were obliged to retreat, as they had attacked with their full force, holding no covering troops in the rear. A small squadron of French aeroplanes bombarded the village of Strumnitza. The Servians, the correspondent adds, are continuing their retreat in a new direction. They attacked the Bulgarians at Perlepe (southward of Veles). Fighting continues.

Bulgarian newspapers are unanimous that after the occupation of Macedonia, Bulgaria's mission will have ended, and she is not disposed to consent to fresh sacrifices.

Bulgarian public opinion is troubled at the presence of Turkish forces in Thrace. There are five divisions at Saffi (on the Maritsa, 37 miles north-west of Adrianople, one at Mustafa-Pasha (17 miles north-west of Adrianople), one at Varna (on the Black Sea), and one at Burgas (53 miles south-west of Varna). Turkish newspapers claim that Germany promised Turkey Thrace, but M. Radosiavoff, the Bulgarian Premier, denies this.

News from Athens states that the Servians have captured Krushevo (25 miles north of Monastir).

The Servians and Bulgarians are engaged in a battle north-westward of Uskub. The former are fighting with desperate courage.

Transports, escorted by the Goeben and the Breslau, and three submarines, are landing troops and munitions at Varna.

The authorities are evacuating all the Roumanian towns on the Danube, in view of the impending Russian attack on Bulgaria.

GREECE'S ATTITUDE.

The allied Ministers have handed M. Scoulondis, the Greek Premier, an important Note, defining material dispositions expected of Greece in conformity with the previous agreement. The Note adds that it is taken for granted that Greece will not oppose the practical measures involved, especially after the Allies' benevolence in the matter of trade, ensuring facilities in securing supplies.

Reuter's Athens correspondent states that after the receipt of the Allies' Note, M. Scoulondis conferred with King Constantine, and the Cabinet met. It was stated later that the Allies' optimism had greatly weakened.

There are indications that Greece will propose that the Entente appoint military experts to discuss with the Greek General Staff the Allies' latest demands.

The "Daily Chronicle's" correspondent at Athens says that the Allies' Note asked Greece to give a categorical assurance at the earliest possible moment that she will adhere to the conditions laid down therein. The situation is regarded as grave.

Munich papers state that as the Allies are violating Greek territory Germany will not hesitate to pursue the Servians thither.

M. Denys-Cochin (French Minister of State) received an immense public ovation in Athens and the honorary citizenship of the city was conferred on him.

ATTACK ON MONTENEGRO.

According to German newspapers, the Austro-Germans will soon undertake the vigorous conquest of Montenegro. The German newspapers anticipate that Montenegro will soon be without ammunition.

A Montenegrin communique says: The enemy is busy reconnoitring, but is concealing the direction of its main action, which it has been preparing for some days.

LORD KITCHENER.

Reuter's agency in Rome reports that Lord Kitchener, who has arrived there is the object of general deference. All classes and the entire press are welcoming him. The Italian press comment favourably on Greece's reply, but members of Parliament are distrustful. They still fear secret agreements exist between King Constantine and King Ferdinand.

Lord Kitchener has gone to the Italian front to meet the King.

BLACKEST PAGE IN HISTORY.

Mr. Shepherd, the correspondent of the American United Press, has written to the New York papers graphic pictures from Monastir of the miseries of the Servian refugees. He describes the road from Nish to Monastir as worse than the Klondyke trail in evidences of privation, exhaustion, and death. The Government party had a terrible journey of 20 days on horseback, including the American wife of a Servian official, who said that there were 3,000,000 starving people in Servia. Horses were starving in thousands. Dogs left behind without food were scouring the hills in famished packs in pursuit of game. The roadside from Nish to Monastir was a continuous horror of dead horses, interspersed with corpses, starved and exhausted fugitives—men, women, and children.

"Our horses," he says, "were starving. Some fell from exhaustion and died where they fell. Our party was the best equipped of all on that trail of death. Yet all we had to eat was half a loaf of bread each daily. Most of the refugees were foodless for days. Many struggled to the villages hopefully expecting bread. They found nothing and lay down and died, being unable to prolong the cruel struggle."

"One night," continues Mr. Shepherd, "I heard the screams of a man being murdered by the hunger-maddened men for his half loaf of bread. What is happening in Servia is the blackest page in history." When M. Michotte, the Belgian Minister in Servia, offered his servants money, they burst into tears, appealing for bread."

Mr. Shepherd appeals to Americans to aid the refugees. He adds in conclusion:—"Batches hourly arrive in Monastir delirious with joy, but even there, food is terribly scarce and fuel is exhausted."

THE BULGARIANS.

Reports from Salonica state that the Bulgarians are apparently concentrating their efforts on the lower Cerna against the French. Fighting has proceeded for several days in the Gradsko region. The Bulgarians made furious efforts to capture Rajec Ridge on the Cerna, which marks the extreme French left. Hitherto they have failed, but a desperate struggle continues.

A German official wireless says that Lady Paget is safe in Sofia, and is assisting in nursing the Bulgarian wounded.

A Paris message states that the Servians are concentrating on a fresh position parallel to the Albanian frontier, and have established communication with Durazzo. This has ensured a safe revictualling base. Thirty thousand Bulgarian wounded, it is added, were repatriated in a week. The Servians fought with unexampled heroism at Prishtina. Although greatly outnumbered, they kept the enemy at bay for ten days, inflicting terrible losses, and retreated only when their ammunition had given out. This struggle exhausted the Bulgarians, who are now marking time. The aviators' bombardment of stores and troops in the town of Strumnitza was completely successful.

The "Petit Parisien" states that the Bulgarian attacks on the British at Valandovo have melted under the powerful fire of the British batteries.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency in Geneva says:—Reports from a Bulgarian source announce a vast enveloping movement by heavy Allied forces on the Monastir front. From the Cerna River at Reka to Orvenik the Bulgars are falling back before violent Servian attacks.

A French communique says: Our airmen dropped bombs on Bulgarian encampments in a Strumnitza village, also at Ishtip (north-west of Strumnitza). In view of the present situation of the Servian armies, our troops on the left bank of the Cerna withdrew to the right bank. This was accomplished without difficulty.

ROUMANIA.

The Milan "Corriere Della Sera" says the activities of Prince Hohenlohe and Price Schaumburg-Lippe and the renewed German intrigues, with the Roumanian newspapers and politicians, have had little effect. The Roumanians are enormously impressed by Russia's concentrations, believing that the Russians have half a million men and 2000 guns ready.

The "Morning Post" states that 200 Russian ships have collected at Reni, on the Danube, at its junction with the Russo-Roumanian frontiers, and expect early sailing orders.

Reuter's Agency reports that Austria and Germany a few days ago made a joint demand on Roumania to allow war vessels to proceed down the Danube, towards Galatz and the Black Sea. Roumania refused. It is fairly certain that Austria and Germany desired to menace the Russian concentration at Reni from Galatz. Roumania's decision will prevent the enemy reaching Galatz.

AUSTRIAN COMMUNIQUE.

An Austrian communique states that since the occupation of Mitrovitza (north-west of Prishtina), 11,000 Servian soldiers had been brought in, also 3500 civilians liable for service.

EASTERN FRONT.

RUSSIA'S BIG ARMY.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

An arrival from Petrograd says that Russia hopes to put in the field in the spring 7,000,000 troops, including 1,000,000 cavalry and 10,000 pieces of artillery. Her enormous efforts to progress are seen in the tremendous traffic along all roads, railways, and canals. The Trans-Siberian trains are daily delivering loads of ammunition, including heavy grenades made in Korea and Japan.

"NO CONSCRIPTION."

CONVENTION IN LONDON.

"A SERIOUS MENACE."

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The "No-conscription Fellowship" held a fairly-attended convention in London, the audience chiefly consisting of persons of a recruitable age. Dr. Clifford Allen presided.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, Labour member for Derby, wrote:—"It is amazing how some people glibly talk about conscription, as if it only had to be introduced to be accepted as a necessary blessing. Nothing is so calculated to divide the nation, embarrass the Government, or be resented by the workers as conscription."

Mr. C. P. Trevelyan, a Liberal member of the House of Commons, wrote stating that he still intended to oppose conscription without qualification in the House of Commons.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald wrote, expressing the view that conscription struck at the root of conscience, and ought never to be imposed upon free citizens.

Mr. Philip Snowden, Socialist member for Blackburn, wrote to the effect that conscriptionists demanded conscription, believing it would be a barrier against democratic power.

The chairman said that conscription would be a serious menace to the trade unionist. There was one objection which all members shared with intense fervour, namely, their belief in the sanctity of human life.

It was unanimously resolved to oppose conscription.

"END IS NEAR."

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

ADDRESSES HIS DISPIRITED TROOPS.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 28.

The German Emperor on hearing that the troops were dispirited owing to their failure to dislodge the Russians, and the rigours of winter appeared theatrically on the front and addressed the troops, exhorting them to have a little patience, and make one or two more efforts.

"Like the horse who knows his stable is near," he went on, "I assure you the end is near. It will recompense you for all."

GERMANS IN CHINA.

A RUSSIAN OPINION.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 27.

The "Novoe Vremya's" Vladivostock correspondent reports that the Chinese Government is engaging German reserve officers.

The "Novoe Vremya" expresses the opinion that the Allies will not permit a repetition of the Turco-Persian bacchanalia in China.

STOCK EXCHANGE.

AN OPTIMISTIC FEELING.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The Stock Exchange is buoyant and optimistic on Greece's reply, and the war news, though indefinite, is regarded as satisfactory, and has produced more confidence. It is also recognised that prices were unduly lowered when the minimums were reduced and the market was uncertain. Consols have touched 61.

THE ITALIANS.

GORIZIA ATTACK.

LONDON, Nov. 28.

General Cadorna reports:—Repeated Austrian counter-attacks on the heights north-west of Gorizia did not prevent us consolidating our captured positions. Fighting on the Carso Plateau yesterday increased in severity. Along the ridge descending from the northern slopes of Mount San Michele towards the Isonzo, the enemy, by a sudden assault, captured the ridge. Our men retook it, and finally consolidated their position.

AN AUSTRIAN REPORT.

An Austrian communique says: Desperate fighting continues around Gorizia (26 miles north-west of Trieste). We maintained our positions. The bombardment of Gorizia with heavy guns is incessant.

Italian shells and incendiary bombs are falling on the town of Gorizia, which is being systematically shot to pieces. The damage to buildings is estimated at 23,000,000 crowns.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT.

SHIPPING PROBLEM.

VERY GREAT DIFFICULTIES.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

Difficulties in connection with the wheat scheme are becoming very real.

The most serious problem facing the committee is that of obtaining sufficient ships to transport the harvest. There are indications that a section of the committee are reluctant to accept the great responsibility of carrying out this portion of the scheme owing to possibilities of failure. They propose asking the Imperial Government for safeguards in the event of chartering ships. There is a growing impression in shipping circles that the only way to secure tonnage will be to commandeer ships. Even then, it is doubtful if sufficient steamers will be available for the whole crop.

The position is the more acute owing to the increase in the shipping rate to Australia during the last few days by 5s per ton.

The board's first sale has been made of 3000 tons on steamer at four ports, January shipment, at 60/.

RELEASING ARMED MERCHANTMEN.

The Admiralty announces that it has been arranged to reduce the hire of the faster armed merchant cruisers by thirty per cent., and the slower cruisers by twenty per cent., after their chartered year expires.

It has also been arranged not to pay the special allowance of 3/ to 3/6 per ton monthly given to vessels in Australian waters.

GRAVE MISGIVINGS.

Representative men in the shipping industry regard the chances of obtaining tonnage for the wheat scheme with grave misgivings. They point out that never has there been such a demand for ships, and therefore it is the most unsuitable time to seek to obtain the enormous merchant fleet required. There is an extreme shortage of both steamers and sailers, while large numbers of vessels have been commandeered for war purposes.

Shippers in the Anglo-Australian trade complain of great difficulty in getting island and other produce to England. Many orders here cannot be accepted owing to the uncertainty of securing ships from Australia. Thus large quantities are stored in Australian ports awaiting tonnage.

"A RISKY EXPERIMENT."

The head of a large shipping concern said: "We are compelled to refuse considerable business from Australia. To endeavour to charter a large fleet is a risky experiment. The recent increase of 5s in freight is bad enough. The Commonwealth's demand on shipping will probably have the effect of raising it higher.

The fact that the Government is compelled to get shipping will have the same effect on the large buying orders on the share market. It is, therefore, doubtful whether most of the proceeds over three shillings will not be swallowed up by the freight. There have been bountiful crops in Canada and the Argentine, making a greater demand on tonnage. In normal times the Government might have got good terms owing to the large order, but at present shippers are assured of a full loading.

There is little private shipbuilding, owing to the Admiralty requirements. The Imperial Government, after pressure, permitted the continuance of the building of a few ships urgently required for oversea trade, but the shortage of labour has made the building slow."

FABULOUS PROFITS.

A high authority in Anglo-Australian shipping circles doubts whether Government action will provide a solution, because of the world-wide war needs. The immeasurably inflated value of shipping might compel Australia to hold up the harvest until we can despatch vessels already available for the Australian trade. There is small chance of attracting many other steamers, for which there is the utmost demand for Atlantic and other voyages.

American and Scandinavian shipping, he adds, is making fabulous profits. For instance, an ordinary tramp steamer of 7500 tons, worth about £50,000, has been chartered for a year at 28s a ton per month, the profit thus being £100,000. That is exceptional, but scores of vessels have been chartered at upwards of 20s, whereas they were formerly content with 4s. It would be absurd to expect these steamers, out of sympathy for Australia, to relinquish the undreamt-of returns from the more rapid Atlantic trading. Many British ships have been commandeered by the Admiralty, which is paying a fixed rate. This, while better than peace rates, is only a fraction of the profits available to private trading.

THE TAX ON PROFITS.

The new tax on war profits, he says, nits the private trader to the extent of almost 70 per cent. of his profit. The shipowner cannot be expected to send a steamer for three months to Australia when he can obtain 55s per ton on a short coal trip to Egypt. It is reasonable to expect Australian freights to exceed 100s.

This authority adds that perhaps it will be impossible to ship the whole of the wheat crop within a year.

NURSE CAVELL.

FRENCH SOLDIER'S SUICIDE.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 27.

According to German advices from Brussels, a French soldier, to whose confession Nurse Cavell's arrest and subsequent execution are attributed, has committed suicide in a military prison.

BRITISH BY-ELECTION

SIGNIFICANT EVENT.

ANTI-WAR PARTY DEFEATED.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The polling in connection with the Merthyr-Tydvil by-election (caused by the death of Mr. Keir Hardie) has resulted:—

Mr. Stanton (Soc.) 10,286

Mr. Winstone (I.L.) 6,080

Mr. Stanton's victory is regarded as an event of the greatest significance. Merthyr is a stronghold of the Independent Labour party, and is well organised. Mr. Keir Hardie's followers were determined the new member should share their anti-war views. There were evidences that Mr. Ramsay Macdonald was warmly supporting Mr. Winstone, and was prepared to accept him as a fitting successor to Mr. Keir Hardie.

The result shows that Mr. Stanton has a strong personal influence with the miners, despite the fact that Mr. Winstone was the official Labour candidate.

Mr. Stanton is an advanced Socialist, but all for the war, and he warmly supported the coalition Government and conscription, if necessary. He is opposed to syndicalism and peace talk. Thus, he captured most of the Liberal and many Unionist votes.

The "Pall Mall Gazette" says that this is the first contest fought in England on the war issues, and is a complete and crushing defeat for the only party which holds a definite anti-patriotic policy.

Unionist newspapers are delighted with Mr. Stanton's victory.

The Liberal papers are reserved, particularly as Mr. Henderson supported Mr. Winstone, and Mr. Stanton was without organisation and money.

The latter gave a bill of sale over his furniture in order to raise money for his election expenses.

Mr. Winstone was opposed to conscription. The general impression is that Mr. Snowden's and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald's advocacy lost Mr. Winstone the seat.

PEACE TALK.

AMERICAN-GERMAN SOCIETIES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

An extensive peace movement is afoot in the United States. Peace parties are planning a special excursion to Europe to endeavour to persuade the Powers to come to terms.

President Wilson refuses to identify himself with it, but it is understood German societies are active in the cause.

WATCHFUL BRITISH.

CASE OF THE ZEALANDIA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.

The steamer Zealandia, which a British cruiser searched off the Mexican coast, has arrived back in New York with her cargo, and has been unloaded.

The British cruiser chased the Zealandia en route and back, but the Zealandia kept in American terriorial waters. The crew are exclusively Germans.

The American Trans-Atlantic Company has requested the Government to convoy its steamer Winnebargo, ex Buenos Ayres, lest British warships should seize it, owing to the doubt existing as to the legitimacy of its transfer to the American flag.

GERMAN TROOPS.

WIDESPREAD MOVEMENTS.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 27.

There are extensive movements of German troops from the west towards Servia. The railway through Freiburg, Ulm, and Augsburg is entirely closed to ordinary traffic. There are other movements of troops in Hanover and Cologne towards Belgium. The movements are exceptionally widespread.

The Prussian War Minister has forbidden soldiers at the front to send Christmas and New Year greetings home, not wishing to give the soldiers an opportunity of expressing their well-known wishes for the early termination of the war.

The German Emperor is expected to give a message to the nation, urging the people to omit all celebrations, and pass the holidays working.

GERMAN PAMPHLET.

SUGGESTED RAPPROCHEMENT WITH JAPAN.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 27.

The German Socialist organ, "Vorwaerts," draws attention to Dr. George Irmer's pamphlet, admitting that Germany's role as a colonial Power in the Pacific has ended, and that it will be difficult to get Kiao-chau from the Japanese. He urges a rapprochement with the latter as of high importance, and adds: "Germany must find territory in Africa. It is easier to negotiate with England than Japan."

The doctor says in another pamphlet that he anticipates a growing alienation between Japan and England, and he urges the advantages of a better understanding between Germany and Japan.

REPATRIATION.

MANY FRENCH SUBJECTS.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency in Geneva says:—Germany has agreed to repatriate many French subjects who were taken as hostages, and 20,000 have been sent to Switzerland, en route to Annemasse, in France—four miles south-east of Geneva.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Canadian Government has cabled 50,000 dollars to the Anglo-Russian Hospital, which is being organised for the Russian front, but £100,000 is required, of which £40,000 has been subscribed. It is hoped that Australia and other dominions will assist.

Sir George R. Askwith, Chief Industrial Commissioner, has awarded the Scottish miners an advance of threepence daily. They asked for ninepence.

Germany has fixed a maximum price for leather, and has confiscated all that is usable for military purposes.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

The steamer Karmola has left London, and the American 4-masted schooner Alumna has left Puget Sound, both for Sydney.

LATE WAR NEWS.

GERMAN LOSSES.

ESTIMATED AT 300,000 MONTHLY

PARIS, Nov. 27.

Mr. Warner Allen, representative of the British press with the French Army, has estimated the German losses to the end of October, 1915, at four and a half millions on all fronts, of which three millions are dead, prisoners, and soldiers permanently disabled. The casualties now total 300,000 a month, of which one-third is able to return to the front. Germany will be compelled to raise the age limit for military service above 45 years. Already a secret circular has been issued to the authorities to register men from 46 to 50. The army doctors are now passing as fit for active service men with one eye, lame, hunchbacks, sufferers from tuberculosis, and heart disease.

THE BULGARIANS.

CONCENTRATING AGAINST FRENCH.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The Paris "Journal" states that the Bulgarians have abandoned Monastir in order to concentrate their efforts on the Lower Cerna, towards Vardar, against the French, which menace large forces.

BAGHDAD.

GENERAL TOWNSHEND'S ADVANCE.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

The Press Bureau announces that General Nixon, telegraphing on the 25th, says:—Major-General Townshend's troops are in possession of the battlefield. The Turks are reported to be retiring to Dialah, 10 miles from Baghdad. It transpires that 1300 prisoners were taken. Our wounded number 2500. The number of killed is not reported.

General Nixon highly praises Major-General Townshend's handling of the troops, and their splendid spirit after severe losses, hardships, and want of water and food.

WAR NOTES.

THE BALKAN SITUATION.

Still one more unpleasant surprise has come out of the Balkans. The Greek problem, which on Saturday appeared to have been satisfactorily settled, is, according to this morning's cables, very far indeed from being so. King Constantine and his Government were quite willing to talk generally of meeting the Allies' demands; but, apparently when it came to a matter of specific detail the whole position once more clouded over. Reuter's correspondent at Athens states that "the Allies' optimism has been greatly weakened," and the "Daily Chronicle's" representative there says baldly that the "situation is regarded as grave." All indications of the exact nature of the negotiations are entirely lacking as far as we are concerned; so we can only wait with what patience we can muster for the next definite turn of the very wobbly Balkan wheel. In the meantime, the news to hand from the Anglo-French front in Macedonia is not completely satisfactory. As already stated, the Allies occupy a small triangular piece of territory, the base being a section of the Greek frontier, and the two sides being the Vardar on the east and its tributary, the Cerna, on the west. It is like a great wedge thrust up into Servian territory, and pointing towards Veles and Uskub. The enemy, who have pushed the war-worn Servians well back towards the Albanian frontier, are paying increasing attention to this wedge, and they are attacking it on both sides, the idea being that if they can crush in one of the sides the Allies will inevitably have to evacuate the whole triangle, and fall back into Greek territory. The attack on the east side along the Vardar appears to be making no progress, though an element of uneasiness creeps in through this morning's report about the French "recapture" of certain positions up towards the point of the wedge near Krivolak. We have never been told that any positions were lost here; on the contrary, all reports have declared that the French were firmly holding their ground. This sort of thing tends to cast suspicion upon the news from the rest of this front. As to the other side, along the Cerna, the French communique states that "in view of the situation of the Servian armies our troops on the left bank of the Cerna have withdrawn to the right bank." Thus one side of the wedge has definitely been forced back a little. But so long as the French can keep the enemy from crossing the Cerna here and the British can keep them from crossing the Vardar on the right, the wedge is, for the time being, safe. But it is the possibility of the enemy gaining a footing across either of or both these streams, and forcing an Allied withdrawal south of the border that renders a prompt solution of the Greek crisis a matter of supreme importance.

DIVERSION OF ENEMY ENERGIES.

Although there is a considerable force of Austro-German artillery with the Bulgarians, there does not, so far, appear to be any great mass of Teutonic troops operating in this extreme southern theatre so far. Nor do the northern invaders seem to be pressing the Servians quite so vigorously as heretofore. It would seem that, having swept Northern Servia clear, and having pushed King Peter's armies well away from the Morava Valley, thus ensuring an absolutely clear and—for the time being at least—an unmenaced pathway to Turkey, they have diverted a good deal of their energy elsewhere. We are seeing evidences of this in the news of the large bodies of German troops, many German guns of all calibres, and great quantities of German munitions reaching Turkey; and this morning comes an intimation that a formidable offensive is being prepared against poor little Montenegro, doubtless with the object of rounding off the Balkan "conquests" and of meeting any Italian move through Albania. The recrudescence of Turkish activity in the Gallipoli peninsula indicates that German munitions have already made their appearance there, and it seems to be only a matter of a short while before we learn of our Australian troops being engaged for the first time against the rank and file of the German army. In view of this, we should, within a comparatively few days, be able to form a definite opinion as to what policy the Allies have decided upon in regard to this Gallipoli campaign. As to the Montenegrin offensive, it is satisfactory to learn that the Servians have now established complete communication with Durazzo, the Albanian port on the Adriatic coast, thus ensuring a safe revictualling base. From such a base the Montenegrins will also be able to draw supplies and munitions, and if Italy does actually decide to co-operate in the Balkans then the established line from Durazzo will offer her facilities for her advance. All of which should tend to hold the Austro-German invasion of Montenegro in check.

THE "PEACE EXCURSION."

Although there is a certain humorous aspect in the proposed special excursion of peace advocates from America to Europe with a view to persuading the Powers to come to terms, it is unfortunate that if this peace movement continues to grow, as it seems to be doing now, it will have some influence upon a certain section of people on our side—people of the type of Mr. Trevelyan, who practically demanded peace negotiations in the House of Commons the other day, and of the type of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, who has never ceased talking against our participation in the war. These persons cannot count for much in the councils of the nation at the present juncture; but the less we hear of them the better. As to the American movement, there are three factors underlying it, each represented by a separate class. First and foremost there is the German and pro-German section, who want to secure peace while the Fatherland is at the height of her "conquests," and before the inevitable turn of the tide; then there is the section of busybodies who see in the movement a chance to bring themselves into prominence in a far wider sphere than their activities have hitherto contemplated; and, lastly, there is the section of well-meaning and good-hearted people who, out of the fulness of their sentiments, are anxious to see an end of the horrors of war. But from the Allies' point of view the whole movement is utterly absurd, even when viewed in the most charitable light. They have undergone fifteen months of intolerable strain and sacrifice in holding off a tremendously powerful enemy till they could overtake the incalculable advantage that his long and thorough preparation had given him. And now, when at last they have wiped out the handicap, and the future holds nothing but his decrease and their increase of strength, it is urged that all their efforts should go for nought, and that they should make peace while he is in the position of a "conqueror." It would be exactly like stopping a fight when one of the contestants who had been rather badly knocked about in the opening rounds was at last beginning slowly but surely to wear down his adversary. It is satisfactory to note that President Wilson has declined to associate himself with this entirely unofficial peace excursion; and it only remains for the Entente Powers to tell the excursionists as gracefully as may be to "mind their own business."

IN THE BALTIC.

A Reuter's message states that it is semi-officially reported in Petrograd that the German cruiser Frauenlob has been torpedoed in the Baltic. Those who have been following the Russian naval news will remember that a cable appeared on November 11 stating that the paper "Politiken," of Copenhagen, reported that it was generally believed that the Frauenlob had been torpedoed off the southern coast of Sweden. But this item came only 24 hours after the announcement of the torpedoing of the sister ship Undine in the very same waters, and it was thought to be just possible that both advices referred to the one incident, though, as we remarked at the time, there really should not have been any confusion as to the name of the cruiser, as the Germans officially admitted that it was the Undine that had been sunk. Now comes this morning's message seventeen days later, stating that it is semi-officially reported in Petrograd that the Frauenlob was sent to the bottom; so, on the face of it, there is good reason to believe that two separate and distinct coups have been brought off. It will also be remembered that on Thursday last a cable came through to the effect that a German cruiser of about 3000 tons had been sunk while patrolling near Windau; but, although the Frauenlob was about the tonnage indicated, this must obviously refer to yet another incident, for Windau, which is on the Courland coast, is a long way from the south of Sweden, and, whereas the Undine and Frauenlob were sunk by torpedoes, it is specifically stated that the Windau vessel was sent to the bottom as the result of gunfire from Russian destroyers. Thus we may take it that three of Germany's light cruisers have been accounted for in the Baltic within three weeks, and at the same time there are very circumstantial accounts of one of the best Teutonic Dreadnoughts having been sent to the bottom through striking a mine. Reverting to the Frauenlob, she was an eleven-year-old protected cruiser of 2640 tons, with a speed of about 21 knots, and, like all the fast light German cruisers, carried ten 4.1-inch guns. There were originally eight vessels in her particular class, two of which, the Ariadne and the Undine, have already been sunk, and another, the Arkona, was, prior to the war, fitted out as a mine-layer. Her complement would comprise about 280 officers and men.

DISTURBANCES IN CITY.

WINDOWS SMASHED.

SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS ARRESTED.

A series of disturbances took place in the city on Saturday night, when a number of soldiers and civilians came into contact with the police. As a result of the different conflicts 18 soldiers and civilians were arrested and charged with riotous behaviour, assaulting the police, and inciting prisoners to resist.

The movement at times assumed serious proportions, and an attack was made upon the Deutscher Club in Phillip-street, about 8.30 p.m. Between three and four hundred soldiers, accompanied by about a thousand civilians, congregated in the street, and stones were thrown at the windows of the club. Twelve panes of glass were smashed, and when the police got inside they made a significant discovery. The stones were all waterwashed, and appeared to have been taken from a heap of similar stones which at present are in Liverpool Camp for the purpose of concrete making.

The crowd was eventually dispersed from Phillip-street, and later some soldiers marched down George-street and halted opposite the Frankfurt Sausage Company. Here they appeared undecided what to do, but eventually one soldier put his foot through the glass window, and some of the contents were taken away. The soldier suspected of committing the offence was arrested, but the crowd took him away from the policemen.

Proceeding along Barton-street, the crowd came into collision with the police, and three soldiers were arrested and taken to George-street North.

A visit was made to Concordia Hall, Elizabeth-street, by the mob, but no damage to the building was done, although considerable horseplay was indulged in by the crowd, and threats were made against the Germans.

The police took 15 soldiers into custody at the Central Station, together with two civilians. Outside the station a huge crowd congregated, and there was talk of "rescuing comrades." The police got among the crowd and drove them to Pitt-street, using their batons in the process. Inspector McLean was injured during the evening, receiving a nasty cut under one of his eyes. In the locality of the Haymarket Inspector McDonald was struck by a stone and Detective Hooper received a heavy blow on one of his knees. The trouble started first of all at the Socialist Club in Bathurst-street about 8.30 p.m., when stones were thrown and windows broken.

A train left Sydney shortly after 1 o'clock, and a large number of soldiers went away with it, after which the city became quiet again.

Mr. Alfred Hayhow, chairman of directors and general manager of the Frankfurt Sausage Company, stated yesterday that the firm is entirely a British one, and that all the shareholders are Australians. The company supplies the Defence Department with goods, and only recently received a cheque for goods supplied for the troopships, etc.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX.

The Deputy Federal Commissioner of Taxation announces that returns under section 25 of the Federal Income Tax Assessment Act must be made so as to reach the department not later than November 30. Returns, when the income is derived from sources in one State of the Commonwealth only, shall be lodged with the Deputy Commissioner of Taxation in that State, and when the income is derived from sources in more than one State with the Commissioner of Taxation in Melbourne. Full postage must be paid on returns, forms for which may be obtained from any post-office, or from the Deputy Commissioner's Office, Warwick-building, Hamilton-street, Sydney.

AUCKLAND PATRIOTIC FUND.

AUCKLAND, Sunday.

The Auckland patriotic carnival closed last night. The Wounded Soldiers' Fund now totals £279,000, and many thousands have yet to come in.

ENLISTMENTS.

ANOTHER DISAPPOINTING WEEK.

One hundred and eleven men were accepted at the city recruiting depots on Saturday—28 at Victoria Barracks, 41 at the Board of Health, and 42 at the Town Hall. The total for the week was 700 in the city, and in country centres, from Monday to Friday inclusive, 199, so that the State total for the full week will only slightly exceed 900. This is a disappointing result; 9500 men a month are required from the Commonwealth for reinforcements only. The New South Wales figures this week are at the rate of about 2857, leaving the other States to make up 5643, which, at their present rate, they are not doing. This week the rate of recruiting has been below reinforcement requirements. Nothing on the week's work has been done towards getting together the 50,000 additional men which Australia has offered to the Empire.

Following are the country enlistments from Monday to Friday last:—Goulburn 24, Armidale 52, Narrabri 19, Dubbo 21, Cootamundra 23, Lithgow 20, Newcastle 30. Total, 199.

An aviation course for military officers will be held at the Central Flying School, Werribee from January 5.

With the view of assisting Mr. Carmichael, M.L.A., to obtain 1000 riflemen to go with him to the front, the Metropolitan Rifle Club has called a special parade this evening. The men will form up at the club's headquarters in Rawson-place, and march to Prince Alfred Park. Mr. Carmichael will then take the parade, after which he will address the men. The Metropolitan Club has promised to supply a platoon towards the required number of men, and it is expected to be complete by next week.

At a meeting of the United Clerks' Union, it was unanimously resolved to place on record the patriotic action of Mr. A. C. Carmichael, M.L.A., in offering his services to the Empire and his intention to raise 1000 men for the Australian Forces.

Private Norman Knight, previously a teacher at the Rockdale Public School, was presented by the pupils and teachers of the school with a wristlet watch.

Private Oliver Nurkins was given a send-off at Lithgow last week, and presented with several gifts.

Troopers Roy and Neil Grantham, of Manilla, received presentations from the Presbyterian Church congregation, and also from the scholars of the Sunday-school.

The contingent of 170 soldiers from Liverpool and Warwick Farm camps, under the command of Lieutenant Wells, have arrived at West Maitland to take part in the recruiting campaign.

The members of the Ellesmere Lawn Tennis Club entertained four of their fellow-members—Privates H. Jennings, E. Stevens, S. Bradbury, and V. Davis—and presented each with a token of esteem.

Private Arthur M'Kenzie, mechanic at the Balmain Automatic Exchange, was presented with a pair of field glasses by Mr. Carl Read, foreman mechanic, on behalf of the staff at the Automatic Exchange.

A send-off was given last week by the firm of Messrs. Windeyer and Williams, solicitors, of O'Connell-street, to four members of the staff—Lieutenant R. C. Osborne, Sergeant Everitt, Corporal Black, and Private Robinson—who are leaving for the front. Presentations were made to the guests on behalf of the firm, and to Sergeant Everitt on behalf of Mr. A. H. Windeyer, of Deniliquin, with whom he commenced practice. Mr. W. A. Windeyer announced that their positions would be kept open for them, and that the firm would make up their pay whilst abroad to the amount of their former salaries. Mr. Keith Williams, the junior partner of the firm, has proceeded to England with the intention of enlisting.

RALLY AT NEWCASTLE.

WEEK'S CAMPAIGN STARTED.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

"I was at the race meeting this afternoon, and if we could have got every man there who was eligible for service we would have secured a whole battalion," said Corporal Melville, a returned wounded soldier, who made an appeal at an open-air meeting last night, when close on 2000 persons were assembled.

Senator Millen said that they were not going to win the war by merely declaring that they were bound to win or by cheering those who joined the colours, although they deserved every cheer given them. There was only one way, and that was by the Australian people deciding to bend their backs to the struggle, and set themselves to the task with a spirit, determination, and tenacity exceeding anything they had yet shown. Australians were practical people, and the last thing they could afford to do was to deceive themselves. Therefore they should face the plain facts of the position. After 16 months of war could anyone say honestly that we had yet commenced to win?

COLONEL OWEN'S RETURN.

CIVIC WELCOME.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

Lieutenant-Colonel R. H. Owen, C.M.G., arrived home last night, and was accorded a civic welcome. He was met at the station by the Mayor (Alderman Smith) and aldermen, members of the Recruiting Committee, and prominent citizens. On alighting from the railway carriage two returned soldiers carried him shoulder high to a motor car waiting outside the station, which was gaily decorated with flags and green and brown ribbons, the colours of the 3rd Battalion, which Colonel Owen commanded at Gallipoli. A procession was formed, with a band in the lead. Returned wounded soldiers formed a guard of honour, whilst a detachment of cadets, under Lieutenant Shipp, also marched. At various points along the route the crowds heartily cheered. On arrival at the Town Hall the Mayor and aldermen with Colonel Owen ascended to the balcony, whilst a large crowd assembled in front of the building. The Mayor extended a hearty welcome to Colonel Owen.

In responding, Colonel Owen said that anything he had done would have been impossible had it not been for the splendid qualities of the men that served under him. He had been soldiering all his life, but never had he met men like those he led into action at Gallipoli. He emphasised the need for more men coming forward to fight in defence of their country. Cheers were given for Colonel Owen, after which the band played "Home, Sweet Home" and the National Anthem.

CASUALTIES.

RUN OVER AND KILLED.

Frederick Coombes, aged 24 years, lately residing at 43 Rose-street, city, was driving two horses and a waggon in Parramatta-road about 12.45 p.m. on Saturday when by some means he fell off. The waggon passed over his body. He was taken to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, where he died a few hours after admission.

FOUND DEAD.

Francis Lord Stevens, 39, a member of the Expeditionary Forces, was found by his wife hanging from a shower-bath at 80 Kepos-street, Redfern. The body was taken to Sydney Hospital, where life was pronounced extinct.

MOTOR OVERTURNS.

A 35 horse-power motor car, owned by Mr. Jonas, of 44 Underwood-street, Paddington, when passing Berowra Creek yesterday, overturned, and the occupants were thrown out. The mishap occurred while turning a corner, and two of the passengers were injured. Mrs. Jonas was admited to St. Vincent's Hospital suffering from extensive bruises and a fractured elbow-bone. The chauffeur was slightly bruised.

TRAM ACCIDENT.

While attempting to alight from a moving tram in Bunnerong-road, South Kensington, about 1.35 p.m. on Saturday, Michael Halloran, 28 years of age, who lives in Goodhope-street, Paddington, fell on the back of his head. The Civil Ambulance conveyed him to Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted suffering from a fractured skull.

SAWMILL FATALITY.

Frederick Charles Thorn, foreman at Messrs. Hirst Brothers' Sawmills, Cabramatta, met with an accident that terminated fatally at Parramatta Hospital on Thursday. Thorn was cutting palings at the mill when the saw struck a knot, the paling rebounded and struck him in the stomach, inflicting internal injuries. He was a son of Mr. T. Thorn, caretaker of the Rosehill Racecourse.

RIFLE RESERVE THOUSAND.

The Metropolitan Rifle Club has called a special parade for to-night in connection with the rifle reserve thousand. The members will muster at headquarters, Rawson-place and march to Prince Alfred Park. Mr. Carmichael has been asked to take the parade, and after putting the men through their drill will place his proposal before them.

GERMANS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT.

"OPPOSITION'S MARE'S NESTS."

The Premier, speaking recently on the financial question, said it was to be regretted that critics who were anxious to see economy maintained had entirely overlooked the great waste of governmental time and money involved in the discovery of mares' nests by private members, in connection with the anti-German campaign.

Referring to the matter yesterday, Mr. Holman said:—"The other day I tabled a paper containing over twenty questions (and answers thereto), all of which had been asked by members of the House about alleged enemy subjects in the Public Service; for which, in every case, there was absolutely no foundation. In many cases the officers indicated were Australian by birth and breeding, and in others their very being was a fabrication—no such persons were in existence. This paper has, oddly enough, escaped the argus eye of the press, and I shall be glad to call public attention to some of its contents.

"On September 8, Mr. Wade asked whether there was a certain person—a daughter of German parents—who was being employed in the Premier's Department, where important communications between this and other Governments were kept. He also asked whether she was married to a German. In reply, he was informed that the lady in question had an American father of Polish extraction, and an Australian mother, and that whoever she may have been married to at one time she had obtained a divorce a year or so before she secured the appointment. It is difficult, therefore, to see that there is anything German about this case.

"Nothing daunted, however, on the next day Mr. Wade asked whether a certain other German had been employed by the Government at Uhr's Point timber yards, and whether he had since been interned by the military authorities. Inquiry disclosed the fact that the person in question had been discharged some months before the outbreak of the war; that he had never been interned; and that he was of British birth.

"A week later we were asked by Mr. Abbott whether a German named Schmidt was employed as a ganger near Armidale, and he was told that no such person was employed.

"Mr. Moxham next asked whether a German named Tuesching was employed by us at the abattoirs, and he also was informed that no such person was employed.

"The next day Mr. Fitzpatrick asked about the nationality of two officers in the Agricultural Department and the Audit Department, bearing German names. He was told that both were Australian born.

"The following week Mr. Hoskins returned to the charge in relation to the mythical Schmidt of Armidale. He again demanded information about him, and was again informed that there was no such person.

"Two days after this Mr. Fitzpatrick, whose thirst for information on public questions has always been one of the most gratifying features of our public life, asked whether Mr. Meyer, who is engaged in connection with the Fisheries Department, was not a German. He was told that Mr. Meyer was an Italian, having been born at Florence. Nothing daunted by the reply, Mr. Fitzpatrick inquired whether Mr. Eldridge, a Public servant, had not some dubious characteristic in his nationality, and he was informed that Eldridge was a Britisher, by birth and parentage. Two days later the member for Orange again came up smiling, with further questions concerning a lady teacher at Fort-street School, and we were able to tell him that she also was an Australian.

"On October 19 Mr. Haynes asked whether there were two Germans in the Chief Secretary's Department. He was informed that in the Fisheries Department there was an officer, born in Australia of German parents who arrived in Australia in 1853—that is, 62 years ago—and that there was no other officer of German origin or descent in the department.

"The next day Mr. W. M. Brown inquired about a sub-inspector in the Government Savings Bank—whether he was an Australian. Mr. Brown was told that the gentleman in question was an Australian by birth.

"On November 3 Mr. Hunt took up the tale, and asked me whether an important officer in the Sydney Technical College was an unnaturalised alien, with a German degree, and whether he had been collecting information as to the available supplies for the manufacture of explosives. It was found, on inquiry, that the gentleman referred to was an American, of Irish parentage, settled in the States for many generations; that he had, amongst many other University distinctions, a degree which he had taken in a German University; and that he had been engaged in reporting on the manufacture of explosives, in the interests of the Australian Governments. This gentleman was, therefore an unnaturalised alien, holding a German degree—that is to say, he was an American friend who was placing his German education at the disposal of the Empire.

"On November 9 Mr. Haynes asked whether a German named Wighberg was in control of the Cataract or Prospect dam, and, consequently, the water supply of Sydney. He also was informed that there was no one of that name in the service.

"On the same day a question previously asked by Mr. Wade, as to the German nationality of an officer in the Health Department, was answered, and it was stated that this gentleman was born in Cumberland (Eng.), as were his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather before him. The Colonial Secretary stated that he had not been able to trace his pedigree back any further, but the gentleman in question had informed him that his early ancestors came over to England in the Saxon invasion. In this sense there is, no doubt, a German strain about him.

"All these mares' nests," Mr. Holman continued, "have been discovered by vigilant members of the Opposition, who feel that without their continuous activity in this direction, there is some danger of the anti-German campaign collapsing. Each of them has involved a large expenditure of official time, and a large proportion of Ministerial attention. Some of them have involved exhaustive inquiries, covering whole departments, before a negative answer could be given. The suggestions contained in most of the questions appear to have been absolute falsehoods. I have no doubt they were placed upon the business paper by the members responsible for them in good faith, but the waste of time and money occasioned is not diminished by that consideration.

"Efforts are being made," concluded the Premier, "by unprincipled persons outside Parliament, to create a scare as to vast numbers of alien enemies in the Public Service, and members who lend themselves to the designs of these persons, by permitting questions to be placed on the business paper in their names, cannot escape some share of the responsibility for their action."

PASSPORTS.

PASSENGERS BY STEAMERS WARNED.

The Federal Government, having issued a proclamation to the effect that male passengers between the ages of 18 and 45 must produce a passport from the Minister for External Affairs before they are allowed to leave Australia, the Union Company is requesting all passengers booked by the R.M.S. Maitai to call upon them as early as possible regarding their passages, as, of course, they will not be allowed to leave the Commonwealth unless they produce the necessary passport.

PACIFIC CABLE.

TURNING OF THE TIDE.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

"It looks like the turning of the tide," said the Postmaster-General (Mr. Webster) yesterday, in referring to the fact that the Pacific Cable for the year ended March 31 showed an excess of receipts over working expenses of £78,685, and this notwithstanding that the cable was out of action from September 8 until November 6 last year, as the result of a raid by a German cruiser.

Mr. Webster said that it was the first time the Governments concerned had been able to show a profit on the working. Certain annuity payments which had to be made more than absorbed the profit on the working, but the position was very favourable, as included in the payments was an amount of £30,000 towards the cost of the renewal of the cable. The receipts for the year 1914-15 amounted to £232,947, and the working expenses to £145,261. The annuity payments amounted to £86,601. The net result was that £7915 had to be made up by the British and Dominion Governments. Of this amount the Commonwealth had to contribute £2638. The Commonwealth proportion, had there been no profit for the year, would have been £5847.

"FIGHT, OR BE SHAMED."

MR. CARMICHAEL ADDRESSES RIFLEMEN.

About 500 men—participants in the most important rifle shooting event of the year—representing about 50 metropolitan rifle clubs, listened attentively to Mr. Campbell Carmichael, M.L.A., at the Randwick Range on Saturday afternoon, when he sought their assistance in helping to secure the 1000 men from the clubs whom he is anxious to take with him to the front. Shooting was suspended for about 10 minutes to allow Mr. Carmichael to speak.

"There are some questions you should seriously ask yourselves," he said. "As riflemen, do you mean business, and are you going to the front with me? The public comes out with a direct challenge to you, so try not to repudiate it. The public says 'Fight, or be shamed.' Now is your opportunity. If you do not mean business, and get to business, the public will come to only one conclusion—that you joined a rifle club for nothing but sport. Don't let them say that. Will you go back to your clubs and tell the members that they have been directly challenged to prove their sincerity? Tell them that if they want to prove that they took up rifle shooting for something more than the sport to be got out of it they should enrol straight away. They can enlist three weeks hence. If the men of the rifle clubs do not go with me in proportion to the membership, then the rifle club movement, which I have endeavoured to foster, will, as far as the new men are concerned, remain a partial failure. Ask your clubmen how many of them can go. If you cannot get a section from your particular club get a file. Help me to fill up a company within the next week. If you do that you will do your duty, and your shield will remain untarnished, as it ought to do."

Mr. Carmichael called for a show of hands of those willing to assist him in getting the desired number of men. Nearly all those present held up a hand. He then asked those who were not prepared to help him to hold up a hand. Only one man did so, but he said that it ought not to be necessary to ask eligible men; they should go to the front without waiting to be asked.

At the call of Mr. T. Westbrook, president of the Metropolitan District Rifle Clubs' Union, Mr. Carmichael was given three hearty cheers.

RED CROSS GOODS.

DISTRIBUTION ON THE TRANSPORTS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) has directed that officers in charge of troops on transports shall in future take charge of all Red Cross goods put on vessels for use of members of the Australian Imperial Force on board. Such officers will be responsible for the distribution of the goods amongst the men.

NEW CENSUS.

ORGANISING THE WOMEN OF THE STATE.

UNITY OF ACTION.

The Commonwealth Government has taken a war census of the male population of Australia, but the organisation of the women, whose responsibilities increase in the ratio to the number of men sent away to the front is left to private effort. The National Council of Women has taken the matter up. The first step is the taking of a census of the women, and as far as New South Wales is concerned this is now being done.

The effort of course is purely voluntary. There is no compulsion on the part of anybody to send in a return card. Yet it is confidently expected that nearly all the women of the State will respond with enthusiasm. It is believed that there are no shirkers among the women of New South Wales. Some cannot do much. Many others are bearing their part nobly in attending to the needs of the family and the home while the male members of the household have gone forth to fight. The National Council of Women believes that a proper organisation of the women of the State will reveal a possibility of assistance in purely national effort that will surprise the country and demand alteration by the authorities.

A War Census Bureau has been established at the old buildings of the Department of Public Instruction in Young-street opposite the Hotel Metropole. Cards are being issued, in which women are asked to give particulars of their circumstances as a guide to any possible apportionment in the direction of united national effort. The objects of the census are:—

1. To assist the nation by organising for war help.
2. To assist the State by obtaining definite information regarding the work that can be done by women in the present emergency.
3. To classify such information and direct it into the channels, where it will be most efficient.
4. To train women for positions hitherto taken by men, to make munitions, and generally to carry on the primary industries of the country, so that as many men as possible may be freed for service at the front.
5. To help women whose bread-winners have been lost in the war to find employment.

The registration committee, the members of which are working in a purely honorary capacity, is in attendance at the office from 12 noon to 4 p.m. daily, and from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays. The cards being issued ask for the full name and address, whether married or single, age, state of health, whether good, bad, or indifferent; occupation, whether other work of professional, Clerical, manual, agricultural, domestic, or miscellaneous can be undertaken in addition to present occupation; what time is available for purely national work; is employment necessary because of death or disablement through the war of the men of the family; if landowner, whether present production can be increased.

It will not be necessary for the exact age to be stated. "A" will mean between 18 and 39, "B" between 30 and 50, and "C" over 50.

The inclusion of the mutual help idea in the organisation is one that will commend itself. If the census is by any means thorough it will enable the National Council of Women to get into touch not only with women who can do more to help the nation and the national cause, but also to trace those women who have been affected by the war in any way. The need of help in the case of women affected by the war is so often untraceable owing to natural pride that it will be possible by means of the information revealed in the census cards to render it where necessary.

STATE LOANS.

N.S.W. REJECTS FEDERAL SCHEME.

A message was received from Melbourne yesterday stating that New South Wales had decided not to adopt the co-operative scheme of the Commonwealth and other States for future loan requirements.

Mr. Holman said last night that the information was quite correct. He did not wish to make a statement at the present time, he said, but he might have something to say regarding the matter at a later date.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

It is understood that, as a result of the decision of N.S.W. regarding State loans, the other States will not make separate demands, as was feared might be the case, but will join together for the regulation of the loans.

SHOT ON THE RIFLE RANGE.

ADELAIDE, Sunday.

A shooting accident, unfortunately attended with fatal results, occurred at the Port Adelaide rifle range on Saturday afternoon. Mr. George Coxall, of Rose Park, was at the 100 yards range with the Sports Rifle Club, and was cleaning a rifle when a bullet from somewhere behind struck him on the right side of the head. He was taken to the Port Adelaide Casualty Hospital, but died just after being admitted.

THE 50,000.

RAISING THE NEW FORCE.

DOCTORS WANTED.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The officers of the Commonwealth Headquarters Staff are busily engaged drawing up schemes for the raising and equipping of the new force of 50,000 men which has been offered by the Federal Ministry to the Imperial authorities.

The War Office has been asked to state how the new force could be of most value. In the meantime the Commonwealth authorities have submitted a proposal to the War Office regarding the composition of the force. No official statement concerning the Commonwealth's recommendation can be obtained, but it is believed that the Imperial authorities will accept it very much on the lines suggested.

In well-informed circles, however, it is understood that the force will consist wholly of infantry, with the special units necessary for infantry brigades. There will, it is said, be about 36 battalions of infantry, and the balance will comprise such units as army medical corps, engineers, signallers, and army service corps.

One of the problems which the authorities expect to meet is that of securing sufficient doctors and men with special training for the army medical corps. For such a force considerably over 100 doctors will be needed, and in the past the supply has been hardly equal to the demand.

As to the general officering of the brigades, there is every confidence.

BRITISH APPRECIATION.

MESSAGE FROM MR. BONAR LAW.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Governor-General on Saturday received a cable from Mr. A. Bonar Law, Secretary of State for the Colonies, in reply to Australia's offer of 50,000 more men for war service. The message was as follows:—

"Please inform your Government how highly his Majesty's Government appreciate such a large addition to the forces already supplied by Australia, and how warmly they welcome this fresh proof of the whole-hearted determination of the people of the Commonwealth to hasten the victorious issue of the war."

TWO SALARIES.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONER.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Commenting on Saturday on a statement made to the effect that the High Commissioner-designate (Mr. Fisher) was drawing the salary of £3000 per annum as from the date of his retirement from Parliament, while Sir George Reid was still acting as High Commissioner in England and drawing his salary, the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) denied that Mr. Fisher was drawing the expenses attached to the office.

"The position," he said "is one which will necessarily recur whenever an appointment has to be made, as an interval of time must elapse between the appointment of a Commissioner and the taking up of his duties in London. Is it to be contended that he must not be paid during that period, which in this case will be about three months? If the new man were not to be paid, a special grant would have to be made to enable him to make those preparations and arrangements which are inevitable in the circumstance. Surely it is not suggested that only rich men should be appointed to be High Commissioner? Mr. Fisher is a man who has no private income, and he has ceased to be a member of Parliament. Is it suggested that the ambassador, as it were, of the Commonwealth is to find his way to London on his own means, or is it suggested that an Englishman or some other person outside Australia should be appointed? The very reason why the term of office of High Commissioner is fixed for five years and no longer is that Australians who are familiar with local conditions as they exist at the time shall be appointed.

WAR CHEST.

WORK AT THE FRONT.

FUNDS NEEDED.

The report of the War Chest Fund's Commissioner, Mr. H. E. Budden, on his first trip to Anzac shows that the special function of the fund—the maintenance of the efficiency of Australian soldiers in the actual firing line—is of immense national importance.

Mr. Budden reports that his first consignment taken to Mudros and Anzac consisted mostly of supplementary food, selected with the object of supplying a change in military rations, recommended by the medical officer for the men. The maintenance of efficiency in the army can be greatly helped if supplies of these supplementary rations can be maintained. Milk in every form, cocoa, arrowroot, rolled oats, light biscuits, varieties of jam unknown at the front, sardines—said to be most useful for the oil. 204 cases of this class of food have been delivered. Additions to the list are urgently needed, and it is desired to forward at once cornflour, beef tea, soup tablets, easily cooked porridges, etc. It is also urgently necessary to distribute as far as possible amongst all units such edibles as chocolate and figs, sauces, curry powder, boiled sweets, golden syrup, dried fruits, etc., are needed.

"We are able to order by cable from England a quantity of these articles," writes Mr. Budden, "and are able to purchase dates locally, of which item I have ordered nine tons. Please send me tobacco, illustrated magazines, and books, games, hair-clippers, matches, pipes, stationery, pencils, insect powder, etc., all for general distribution. I delivered 60 pairs of hair-clippers, 300 tins insect powder, 100 dozen pencils, one case of pipes and matches, 11 cases of tobacco and cigarettes, 43 bales or cases of literature, etc., and five cases of sporting implements out of the generous gift of £1000 from the Australian Jockey Club. Tobacco pipes are urgently required. I have ordered 20,000 cheap corn cob and cherrywood at about 3d each. Mouth-organs and games (small, like draughts, pigs in clover, puzzles, etc.), are wanted.

"We are preparing to supply socks, shirts, handkerchiefs, towels, etc., and soon we will forward the warmer shirts. Balaclavas, scarfs, and warm vests, mitts, etc., we asked for by cable. The winter will be very cold and wet. Socks cannot be dried, and so new ones will be wanted. We feel sure our clothing comforts will play a great part in another month or two. Please do not spare efforts, and be prepared to receive forecasts for lighter clothes as soon as we see winter half over.

"Subscribers may wonder why comforts funds should supply what are invalid foods at the front, but please understand that the Red Cross begins only when the man is sick. We consider prevention better than cure, and our plea is so strongly supported by medical and army officers that probably the army and Red Cross may also assist in this supplementary ration supply. The demand is so great it has to be recognised. We are doing it to the limits of our funds, and yet only touch the fringe. This is no figure of speech; it is a horrible truth. What are the limits of our fund? I have faith to believe that you will not say, and with this confidence we are going on developing a grand work, to have any part in which is indeed a privilege."

The Queensland Patriotic Fund, the Lady Mayoress's Patriotic League of Melbourne, the Adelaide League of Loyal Women, and the Patriotic League of Perth are co-operating with the "War Chest" Fund in despatching goods to War Chest commissioner; and the War Chest Fund in Sydney alone has forwarded the following list of goods for the quarter ended November 17 direct from their own fund, viz.:—6256 shirts, 7550 pairs socks, 507 Balaclavas, 3190 mufflers, 78 cholera belts, 338 mittens, 1504 handkerchiefs, 1120 washers, 1500 horse bandages, 21,640 kit bags, 15,000 sand bags, 215 towels, 211 sheepskin vests; total number of articles, 59,309; 862 billies, 15,084 tins canned fruit, 18,600 tins lollies, 1440 tins milk food, 15,132 tins dried milk, 14,688 tins golden syrup, 5040 pipes, 1007 oil sheets, 5cwt tobacco—besides handling all the cases of comforts, etc., despatched by the various battalion committees in Sydney, which are not included in this list.

During last week the committee was able to redouble its efforts, and duplicate many of the orders for supplementary supplies, as it received several generous contributions.

From the commissioner's report, however, instead of only duplicating, the committee feels it should be able to quadruplicate. Out of £33,000 collections the committee has only £1000 in hand, which must be always kept available to provide for the direct orders of the commissioner in Egypt. In order to keep up a regular supply regular subscriptions, no matter how small, are earnestly asked for by the hon. secretary, 113 Pitt-street, Sydney. Donations of goods should be left at the depot, 321 Pitt-street, Sydney.

LABOUR TROUBLES.

COCKATOO DOCK.

ENGINEERS CEASE WORK.

UNION SQUABBLE.

There is again trouble at Cockatoo Dock over a question of demarcation of work, and as a consequence the engineers have ceased work. The difficulty arose as to what particular work should be carried out by engineers and shipwrights. These men, along with the boilermakers, work under a demarcation agreement, paragraph 117 (a) of which states that engineers are to make, mark off, and erect all voice tubes and connections. Another paragraph, 161 (b), stipulates that the lining off of all positions throughout a ship is shipwrights' work, except when otherwise specified. The shipwrights' claim that paragraph 117 (a) does not specify whether the lining off of voice tubes is to be done by anyone else. Therefore, it is their work. The engineers contend that they have always done such work.

Negotiations are proceeding between the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, to which the men on strike belong, and the management at the dock.

STRIKE AT STEEL WORKS.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

There are now 200 men who decline to continue work at the Broken Hill Proprietary Company's steel works until they obtain better rates and conditions than those provided in the recent award. The fact of these men being out of work will stop the making of any tests of munition steel, and will therefore prevent the delivery of munition steel, but will not hamper the actual making of the steel.

WALSH ISLAND EMPLOYEES.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

The members of the Federated Ironworkers' Association held a special meeting this morning to decide whether they would continue working. The trouble was over the rate of wages paid. In the past the Government ironworkers' assistants received 1s per day more than the outside employees. Recently, however, the wages board brought the outside workers' wages up to the same rate as the Government employees. The Walsh Island men then made application for a further 1s per day increase, so that they would still be in advance of the outside workers. This application was turned down, and the men handed in their notices to cease work. At a conference held last week the management offered 6d per day extra. The men this morning, by a majority of 2 to 1, decided to accept this offer pending the decision of the Arbitration Court on the cost of living question. The dispute is now settled, and the men intend to resume work to-morrow.

BROKEN HILL MINERS.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

Meetings of underground mine workers were held on Friday night, yesterday, and to-day, to hear the report of delegates to the compulsory conference at Melbourne. Yesterday's meeting carried the following resolution:—"That there shall be no work on Saturday afternoons until the 44 hours week has been won."

The meeting this morning confirmed yesterday's resolution to fight on. The A.M.A. met this afternoon, when the union delegates presented their reports. These were received, and the meeting decided that the association should remain neutral.

FIREMEN DEMAND HIGHER WAGES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A dispute between the firemen and the owners (Huddart, Parker, and Co.) of the liner Westralia on the subject of wages resulted in a serious delay to that vessel, which was to have sailed from Melbourne for New Zealand direct at 6 o'clock on Friday night. In consequence of the dispute the Westralia did not begin her voyage until nearly 2 o'clock this morning, about 32 hours late, the firemen having in the meanwhile decided to accept the ruling rates of pay in place of a demand previously made for special terms. The detention of the vessel was the more serious because she carried about 700 bags of mail matter, including the whole of the English mail for New Zealand.

STOREMEN AND PACKERS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

At the request of parties to the dispute in the case of the Storemen and Packers, Mr. Justice Higgins, President of the Arbitration Court, had an informal interview with them in his chambers on Saturday morning. The object was to see if any understanding could be arrived at. The matters at issue were talked over for some time, but at the conclusion of the meeting the Registrar of the Court stated that up to the present no settlement had been arrived at. Mr. Justice Higgins afterwards left for Sydney.

THE PREMIER.

CENSURED AT NEWCASTLE.

MR. GARDINER'S ACTION.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

A special meeting of the members of the Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Service Association was held at the Trades Hall last night to show appreciation of the actions of Mr. A. R. Gardiner, member for the district, in connection with his recent speech and the attack made upon him by Mr. Holman in Parliament.

Mr. T. Godfrey moved,—"That this meeting of Railway and Tramway employees accords congratulations to Mr. A. R. Gardiner, M.L.A., on his recent speech in Parliament in the interests of the low-paid Government servants, and endorses his action in standing his ground against the Premier; and we hereby accord our censure of the Premier (Mr. W. A. Holman) for his violent and aggravated attack on an honest and straightforward member such as Mr. Gardiner, and we call upon the Premier to withdraw his utterances."

Mr. J. Kenny moved,—"That we ask Mr. Holman to resign his seat in Parliament and come to Newcastle to contest the seat against Mr. Gardiner."

Mr. E. E. Jones, secretary of the Wickham Labour League, moved,—"That we members of the Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Service Association hereby heartily congratulates Mr. Gardiner for opposing increases in salaries to the highly-paid Government officers while no increases have been given to the low-paid employees. We maintain that as the Labour Government has been returned to power by a majority of workers the time has now arrived when they should rectify just and legitimate grievances throughout the Government departments in New South Wales; and we further maintain that nothing less than 10s per day is a living wage for the workers of this State."

All the motions were carried unanimously.

Mr. A. R. Gardiner, in addressing the meeting, said that not long ago he found out that some very large increases were given to very highly-paid officers of the Public Service. He thought it was his duty to protest against such preferential treatment in giving golden Christmas boxes to the higher-paid officials while so many people were out of work, or worked intermittently, and retrenchment was found necessary in every direction. This was not the time for such increases. Men in the lower branches of the Public Service were being retrenched in all directions. In every department alike increases had been granted to the higher officials. He could assure them that a remedy would have to be found, and redress given before the matter was allowed to drop.

The Sydney Wharf Labourers' Union, at its last meeting, resolved:—"That the members of the Sydney Wharf Labourers' Union condemn Mr. Holman and congratulate and endorse Mr. Gardiner in the stand he took in Parliament."

WAR LOAN.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

To-morrow and Tuesday are the final days on which payments of the fourth instalment of 30 per cent. of the war loan may be made. The Federal Treasurer (Mr. Higgs) stated on Saturday that he desired the public to keep their stock provisional certificates until they had cashed their coupons for interest, due on December 15, 1915. After that date they should apply to have their stock inscribed, or to receive Treasury bonds.

TUMBARUMBA.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S VISIT.

TIMBER RESOURCES.

Arrangements have been made to enable the Governor-General, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, to inspect the timber of the Tumbarumba district, which includes both hard and soft woods. His Excellency, whose keen interest in forestry is well known, will be accompanied by the Minister for Lands and Forestry, Mr. Ashford.

The party will set out from Wagga on Tuesday, December 7, and the inspection of the forests will occupy a couple of days.

The party will, on Tuesday, motor from Wagga to Tumbarumba, about 70 miles. On Wednesday, Laurel Hill, 16 miles from Tumbarumba, will be visited, and the party will go about nine miles into the forests. Mountain ash country will be inspected on horseback, eight or ten miles beyond where the buggies will take the visitors. Luncheon will be partaken of in the bush, and after a return to Laurel Hill an inspection will be made of the Australian Boat Oar Factory. On Thursday the party will drive from Tumbarumba to Burra Creek, a distance of seven miles. Stretches of messmate and mountain gum will be viewed, and ten miles in the recesses of the forest luncheon will be made ready. A return will be made to Wagga during the evening, and en route the party will see in the distance the snow-clad heights of Mount Kosciusko.

ENEMY CAGED.

MR. COOK'S VIEW OF THE WAR.

Mr. Joseph Cook, M.P., speaking at Brooklyn on Saturday, under the auspices of the Berowra Tourist Association, referred to the proposed new force of 50,000 men.

It was Australia's answer to the further attempts of the "mad dog" to break through the cordon which had already been securely drawn around him, said Mr. Cook. He, for one, deprecated any undue pessimism at the present time.

"The enemy is caged up," continued Mr. Cook; "but, thanks to his fighting on the inner lines and the strategic railways he possesses, his hitting power is as yet equal to our own. He has to become weaker, as he is doing now, before we can go in and finish him off. This means waiting and waiting is not only weary but costly business. It is not for nothing that Mr. M'Kenna and Mr. Asquith are constantly preaching curtailment and fewer imports. This is the one great need of the moment, and if we can but rise to the full height of our financial opportunity and means, there need be no fear of the ultimate result."

SUBURBAN FIRES.

The fire brigades of the suburbs had a strenuous time yesterday fighting bush fires. A remarkable incident occurred at Gordon. While the firemen were being taken away to a fire at Killara-road in a sulky by Mr. Frank Meeks, a storekeeper, who lives opposite the fire station, a blaze started in Mr. Meeks's store, and the shop was severely damaged by fire, while rooms in the house were damaged by smoke and fire. The fire at Killara-road damaged the roof of an unoccupied dwelling. At Blakehurst, Tom Ugly's Point, 500 acres of bush and several hundred panels of fencing went; while at Peakhurst 50 acres was swept. The following calls were recorded during the day:—Epping, large area of bush burnt; Drummoyne, five acres; Undercliffe, 10 acres; Arncliffe, three acres; Liverpool, 20 acres; Abbotsford, two acres; Eastwood, two acres; Copeland-street, Liverpool, 10 acres; Mascot, two acres; Concord, two acres; Floodvale, two acres; John-street, Ashfield, two acres. At the Ashfield Brickworks 100 tons of firewood were alight, and considerable damage done. A building and fence at the rear of Elliott's furniture factory, Annandale, were also damaged by fire.

THE EASTERN.

RELEASED FROM QUARANTINE.

The E. and A. Company's steamer Eastern, on arriving from Kobe, via ports, at 5.30 a.m. on Saturday, was sent to the Quarantine ground, on account of a supposed case of plague, which had been discovered during the voyage. The patient had been landed at Thursday Island, and after the vessel had been anchored off the quarantine ground for a few hours she was released and proceeded up the harbour at 10.15 a.m., and berthed at the E. and A. Company's wharf.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

SESSIONS CONCLUDED.

PERTH, Sunday.

Parliament sat till after midnight, and the session was closed, the Assembly adjourning to January 24 and the Council to February 25.

Conferences between the two Houses on the Drink and Land Bills resulted in a compromise. Instead of the Assembly's referendum on hotel closing hours the Legislative Council's proposal to close hotels from 9 p.m. to 9 a.m. was adopted for metropolitan and agricultural districts. The goldfields and north-west districts were exempted, but it was provided that these may take a referendum on the question whenever they petition for it. The Anti-shouting Bill produced a curious division. The Premier and the Opposition leader voted with it. The Minister for Lands and Mines and the Country Party leader were against it. The Speaker—a teetotaller—gave his casting vote against.

The Lands Reclassification Bill compromise gives effect to the Council's major amendment that selectors' rents for more than 12½ miles from a railway may be deferred for any period up to five years.

The Appropriation Bill was passed, with an amendment to the schedule consequent on the Council's reduction of the State steamer item in the Loan Bill, which reduction the Government had accepted.

The Legislative Council, by 10 votes to 8, rejected a bill rushed through the Assembly to regulate the prices of the necessaries of life. The bill was, with some slight additions, identical with the Control of Trade Bill, which the Council had previously rejected.

"HELP THE BOYS."

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

Last week Private Annett, who had his right arm blown off at Lone Pine, was accorded a welcome home. Several thousand people met him at the train, and, headed by the town band, he was escorted to the Town Hall, where he was welcomed by the Mayor (Alderman Norman Smith), on behalf of the townspeople. Private Annett, who is the sole support of his mother, in returning thanks for his reception, said he had had a rough time, and had lost his right arm; but notwithstanding that he would get on. It was not himself he was thinking of—it was the boys he had left behind who needed reinforcements. He considered that it was the duty of some of those who remained behind to make up their minds to go and help their mates in the fighting line. Help was certainly needed.

CHILDREN BURNT TO DEATH.

CANOWINDRA, Sunday.

A weatherboard house on the property of Mr. C. Travers, situated six miles from Canowindra, was destroyed by fire yesterday, and two young children, named Lockrey, aged 5 years and 3 years respectively, were burnt to death.

SYDNEY RAGGED SCHOOLS.

The annual report of the Sydney Ragged Schools, which is to be presented at the 55th annual meeting, to be held in St. James's Hall, Phillip-street, this afternoon, and at which the Lord Mayor will preside, states that there has been abundant evidence that the effect of the healthful moral influence of the schools has been very great. The teaching, especially on its Christian side, and the whole atmosphere of the schools, gave the lads a fitness for a start in life on a higher plane than would otherwise have been their lot. A number of former scholars had gone on active service, there being five from the Jubilee school alone at the Dardanelles. During the winter months daily warm meals had been given in most of the schools, as in former years, and had been much appreciated. About 10,000 meals, on an average, had been given during June, July, and August for many years. Other help, in the form of clothing, etc., had been given, and occasionally relief had been afforded to families. The expenditure for the year exceeded the income, and an appeal is made by the committee for greater assistance from the public.

CITY FIRE.

BLAZE IN GEORGE-STREET.

CLOTHING FACTORY GUTTED.

What threatened to be a serious conflagration occurred in the rear portion of a building situated at 310 George-street, city, at 9.40 p.m. yesterday, when huge flames and showers of sparks were seen shooting from two windows on the first floor of the building.

The headquarters of the Fire Brigade received the call from Nightwatchmen Scott and Bedingfeld at 20 minutes to 10, and headquarters, Circular Quay, William-street, and York-street North stations were called out.

Chief Officer Sparks, Second Officer Jackson, and Third Officer Watson (Circular Quay) attended, and on arrival found smoke pouring from the windows of the premises occupied by Kerry and Co., photographers. The building is on the corner of De Mestre-place and George-street, and a glance down De Mestre-place revealed great tongues of flame shooting out of the first-floor windows at the rear of the premises, and hurling themselves towards the windows of the building opposite, recently vacated by Lloyd and Collins.

At first the fire appeared to be in Kerry and Company's premises; but a closer inspection showed that it had originated in a clothing factory on the first floor at the back, which is connected with the tailoring business of Messrs. Cochran, Glenvale, and Co., whose shop is on the ground floor of the building, in George-street.

Third Officer Watson, in charge of the Circular Quay section, attacked the fire with scaling ladders from the rear of the building, while the Darlinghurst section attacked the first floor from scaling ladders in De Mestre-place. By this means the flames in the back room on the ground floor were subdued, and the Circular Quay men were able to drag a hydrant up the charred staircase to the first floor, where the fire had apparently originated.

The men from De Mestre-place were playing water on to the flames through the windows on the first floor, and when the Circular Quay men worked up to this floor and joined efforts they soon had the outbreak in hand.

The room where the fire occurred is about 20 feet by 40 feet, and it was completely gutted. A small room on the floor below and immediately behind Cochran, Glenvale, and Company's shop, was also gutted. The flames worked through to the second floor and damaged the wall of Kerry and Company's photographic studio. This firm's premises were also damaged by smoke and water, as were also the shop of Cochran, Glenvale, and Co., and the Mia Mia Tea Rooms on the basement.

The building which is one of three floors, is owned by the Cohen Estate. The damage to Cochran, Glenvale, and Co.'s stock and fittings is covered by insurance policies totalling about £2000 having been taken out in the London, Liverpool, and Globe and New Zealand insurance companies. The damage to Kerry and Co.'s studio is also covered by insurance.

MAJOR HELSHAM WELCOMED.

RICHMOND, Sunday.

Major W. M. Helsham, of the Army Medical Corps, who went with the first contingent, and took with him 50 or 60 Richmond recruits and Hawkesbury Agricultural College students, received a cordial welcome on his return home to Richmond.

At the School of Arts patriotic choruses were rendered by the Choral Society, and stirring speeches were delivered by Major Klein, Major Philip Charley, and Principal Potts (H.A.C.).

Major Helsham feelingly responded. He said he had been away 15 months, out of which the two months he spent at Gallipoli, was the best time of his life. "If I were a young man," he added, "I would go again. And all who go will never regret it. I would not have missed it. Lots more will need to go. It is going to be a long war, and numbers will tell."

The major paid a warm tribute to his corps. He would not wish for a better lot. And the warmth of the welcome home he took as a compliment not only to himself but to the men of the Richmond district who went with him.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE.

DUBBO, Sunday.

A largely-attended meeting of citizens, presided over by the Mayor (Ald. J. Barden), was held in the Protestant Hall on Friday, when the following resolutions were carried unanimously:—(1) "That, in the opinion of this meeting of Dubbo citizens, the introduction of conscription or universal service is vitally necessary for the successful prosecution of the war, and that the foregoing be forwarded by the Mayor to the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth and to the Premier of New South Wales. (2) That an association be formed to promote the introduction of universal service, and that a committee consisting of the Recruiting Association and Aldermen D. M'Quinn, and J. J. M'Genty, and Messrs. G. Wheeler, E. R. Hawke, and T. D. Palmer be elected to give effect to the foregoing. (3) That till such time as universal service is introduced this meeting pledges itself to support the recruiting movement."

WOUNDED IN ENGLAND.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) has received a report by cable from Colonel Fetherstone, Acting Director-General of Australian Medical Service, as follows:—"I can assure our friends that invalids are being cared for and given the best possible attention. They are great favourites everywhere. The units necessarily vary, but most Australians in the London district hospitals are very good. Food is good and plentiful. The equipment of the English convalescent homes is splendid. Canteen prices are nominal, and concert halls and recreation and reading rooms are often elaborately furnished. The men are given leave regularly at convalescent homes, and are paid 5s weekly. In addition they are given many things free. For all special purposes larger sums are granted on requisition, and they are practically never refused."

PATRIOTIC FUNDS.

ASSISTANCE BY SCHOOLS.

The Director of Education, Mr. P. Board, on Saturday made a statement concerning the patriotic funds and school subscriptions.

"Instances," said Mr. Board, "have been brought recently under the notice of the Department of Public Instruction, where unauthorised persons by advertisement and other means have sought co-operation with Public schools in connection with various proposals to raise money for patriotic purposes. There is evidence that at least one of these attempts is bogus. Under these circumstances, I am directed by the Minister to state that while the department is in complete accord with the Public schools making every effort to encourage pupils to assist legitimate efforts on behalf of the patriotic funds, schools are not permitted to take part in any way with movements that have not been approved by the department. Authority has already been given for schools to raise funds for specified patriotic purposes, and special permission must be obtained when the assistance of the school is asked for any purposes other than those of the funds already notified."

MEMORIAL TO FALLEN SOLDIERS.

The Governor to-night will unveil a memorial to fallen soldiers at the North Sydney School of Arts. Sir William Cullen will also be present.

DARING AIRMAN.

PARACHUTE DESCENT FROM HEIGHT OF 10,000 FEET.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

Colonel Maitland, a naval airman, daringly solved the problem of the safety of parachute descents from a great height.

He ascended in Surrey to a height of 10,000 feet to-day and dropped thence with a parachute, falling hundreds of feet before it opened. His hands were so cold that he thought at one moment he must let go.

Colonel Maitland safely accomplished the descent in fifteen minutes.

COUNTERFEIT TREASURY NOTES.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The men arrested in connection with the counterfeiting of Treasury notes have been remanded.

Evidence was given as to the seizure of the plant in Tottenham Court-road. The plant included an engraved plate from which the notes were printed, about 1200 forged notes and a machine for making the watermark.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN MOTOR SHIP.

LONDON, Nov. 27.

The Western Australian motor ship Kangaroo sailed to-day. She will return early in 1916, laden with wheat.

[The Kangaroo has been purchased for the Western Australian Government, and is intended for the meat trade. It has been arranged, however, that she will first take a cargo of wheat to the United Kingdom.]

MOTORING FATALITY.

STRANGE CASE IN VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

About 8 o'clock to-night a motor party drove up to the morgue, bringing with them the dead body of a woman. The driver of the car, who gave a name and address, stated that he was one of a party which had this morning left Melbourne for Macedon in two cars. In the car which he was driving were four women and another man. During the return journey he tried to pass the car carrying the other members of the party, and in doing so ran on to a piece of rough metalled road. One of the axles of his car snapped, and at the same time the door of the car flew open, precipitating one of the women on to the roadway. When picked up she was dead.

The man said the dead woman lived with her husband and two children in Richmond. He had met her unexpectedly this morning and she had joined the party.

STATE SECURITIES.

EXEMPTION FROM FEDERAL TAX

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

During recent weeks representations have been made by the State Ministry to the Federal Ministry with a view of securing the exemption of State Government securities from Federal taxation.

When questioned upon the subject on Saturday, the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) said he had had an interview with the Premier (Sir Alex. Peacock), when various financial questions, including the exemption of State securities, were discussed. A statement setting out the views of the Federal Ministry was being prepared by the Treasurer (Mr. Higgs), and in all probability it would be available for publication within a day or two.

FINANCIAL.

CONSERVING OUR GOLD.

The Federal authorities have decided to prevent outgoing passengers from the Commonwealth leaving with more than £50 in gold unless they have first obtained special permission. This throws a strong light upon the important part that gold is supposed to play in war. It is true that there is a school of thought that has very little regard to the alleged importance of gold. It regards gold as a mere foolish fetish, and is of the firm opinion that the German paper scheme in Germany's peculiar circumstances of self-containment will permit of her fighting on for ever without running the risk of financial strangulation. We cannot bring ourselves to subscribe to that wholly unorthodox theory. Germany is in much the same position as an individual with some assets giving an unlimited number of promissory notes to his friends, and out of all proportion to any reasonable probability of his being able to meet them on their due dates. For a time all seems to go well with him. He lives well and seems to thrive on the borrowed capital, but as he gets deeper and deeper into debt both he and his friends at length begin to realise that his position is one of hopeless insolvency. It is urged in rebuttal by these theorists that cases are not on all fours, that German government makes its paper legal tender, and so it is good for the settlement of any debt; and Germany, being compulsorily self-contained, the value of its paper can never depreciate nor its credit totter. But is not a sharp advance in prices measured in paper money really equivalent to a depreciation of that paper? Prices of many, indeed of most, necessary commodities are rising phenomenally in Berlin. "Yes," reply the theorists, "but when the prices of an actual necessity begin to rise dangerously does not the Berlin Necessary Commodities Commission, or whatever the corresponding body there is called, then fix prices at a reasonable level?" The Government can and may do that, but in doing so it does not by any means solve the difficulty. If the farmer who grows wheat gets the same marks for the product of a certain area which is precisely the number of marks that he would have reasonably expected had there been no war, he may at first sight seem to be just as well off now as then. In point of fact, however, he is not nearly so well off, because the ploughs he must buy, the bags he requires for his grain, the clothes he wants for himself and family, have all advanced in price, and the limitation of the price that he can obtain for his product and the non-limitation of the price of many things which are to him essential may mean that he is being sacrificed for the general good. That sacrifice cannot be carried beyond a certain point, and when that point is reached the whole scheme falls to pieces, for he is unable to continue to produce. He is financially choked by being stuffed with indigestible paper money.

GOLD IN AUSTRALIA.

But here in Australia we are still on a gold basis, and it is with the object of conserving our gold and preventing it in an unauthorised way from trickling through neutral countries to the enemy that the present restrictive steps have been taken. It is interesting to consider how we stand in the matter of gold. How much of the precious metal the people at large carry in their pockets it is not possible to say. One of these days the Federal Statistician will tell us the results of the war census, which compelled the people of the Commonwealth to say what gold they possessed on June 30 last. Probably these figures will not be particularly accurate, but they will afford some guide. The big reservoir of gold in Australia consists of the banks. The latest returns show that these institutions hold 31 millions sterling of gold coin and bullion in their vaults in trust for their customers, the people of the Commonwealth. Besides this, the Federal Government holds over [illegible] millions in the Treasury in Melbourne against the note issue, this representing somewhat over 25 per cent. of the aggregate circulation. This is considerably in excess of the total amount held by the public. In other words, if the banks made no move, the Treasury has enough gold to redeem every note in the hands of the public and something to spare. Certainly, in the matter of gold, Australia stands exceptionally well, but it is [illegible] that during the last few months gold exports have been very heavy.

SHIPPING PROSPERITY IN WAR TIME.

Shipping in these days of high freights is becoming more and more profitable. This is evidenced anew by the recently-declared dividends of the Commonwealth and Dominion line, the General Steam Navigation Company, and the Ellerman Shipping Company. The first-named, which was only formed last year, and is engaged in the Australasian trade, makes a good start with a distribution on the ordinary shares of 5 per cent., besides placing £20,000 to a staff superannuation fund and carrying £4500 forward. The General Steam Navigation declares an interim dividend of 3 per cent. on account of the current year, whereas last at this time it made no such payment, though 6 per cent. was ultimately distributed for the whole of 1914. The trading profit of the Ellerman Company went up from £7150 to £8800, and the dividend was maintained at 15 per cent. for the third year running, though on this occasion payable on a larger amount of capital.

NEW ZEALAND LOAN.

The New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Co., Ltd., has received cable advices from London relative to the accounts for the year ended June 30 last. After payment of preference interest dividend, placing £5000 to staff benevolent fund, and carrying £19,084 to reserves, the balance of revenue for the year, including the amount brought forward from last year, is £[illegible], out of which the directors recommend payment of dividend less income tax on the 5 per cent. cumulative preference stock at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, of which half was paid in June last, and a dividend, less income tax, at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum on the ordinary stock, leaving a balance of £81,404 to be carried forward. Out of the liquidation of New Zealand Land Association, Ltd., £168,571 has been received, of which £59,865 has been applied in writing down premises, and £106,706 has been carried to reserve. Total reserves now amount to £110,000. The annual meeting will be held on December 9.

WAR LOAN INSTALMENTS.

"A non-investor" writes:—

"Sir,—In your issue of 26th instant a 'Modest Investor' complains that by having to draw out of the Savings Bank the amount of his war loan instalment due on 30th instant, he loses a month's interest on the amount. Quite so, but he very modestly refrains from obtruding on our notice the fact that on December 15 the Commonwealth Government will pay him six months' interest at 4½ per cent. p.a. on the instalment which will have been in its hands for a fortnight. His complaint appears to boil down to this: that he cannot get interest from both State and Federal Governments for the same money for the same period.—Modest' Investor."

STATE EXPENDITURE.

PROSPECTING VOTE.

LITTLE RECOVERED.

BY GEO. H. PITT.

It seems appropriate when the debate on the Estimates for 1915-16 is pending to direct attention to the prospecting vote, with a view of consideration being given to the question as to whether results justify modification of the terms of the vote, or even its continuance.

Since the year 1887 Parliament has appropriated a sum annually for the purpose of promoting prospecting for minerals, and during 1914-15 the range of the vote was extended to prospecting in connection with State coal mines. The vote reads thus:—

"To promote prospecting for gold and other minerals, and to encourage the opening of new fields and to meet expenses of prospecting operations in connection with the establishment of State coal mines. The amounts advanced in aid to be refunded to the Consolidated Revenue Fund if, in the opinion of the Prospecting Board, minerals are won in payable quantities or the mine otherwise proves profitable to prospectors."

The total amount advanced to and expended therefrom by prospectors and others during the 28 years the vote has been current was £459,350, whilst the repayments of the money so advanced to June 30, 1913, amounted to only £2373. The recoveries during the financial years 1913-14 and 1914-15 are not available; but it is safe to assume that the total sum recovered during the whole period of operations does not amount to £3000.

Under the terms of the vote the Prospecting Board is the sole arbiter as to whether developments in each venture had reached a paying basis, and the results of its inquiries and investigations during the whole period of 28 years are represented, from a financial standpoint, by a refund to the Consolidated Revenue Fund of a sum of less than £3000 against an amount advanced of £459,350.

It would seem clear that the Legislature in 1887 when placing the item on the Estimates was desirous of fostering the development of this important primary industry by granting temporary aid in prospecting for and in the development of profitable or payable fields, and it would seem equally as clear from the results of the decisions of the Prospecting Board extending over a period of 28 years that the good intentions of the initiators of the vote have not been realised, and that Parliament by voting further amounts year after year is adding to a huge expenditure already incurred on profitless ventures. More than passing attention should therefore be devoted in the consideration of this item when the Estimates in detail are under discussion.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX.

A SMALL MANUFACTURER.

J. D. puts his case:—

I am a small manufacturer with a registered factory. My income for the year 1914-15 is about £80. Have I to send a return in to the Federal Income Tax Department?

If your gross income does not exceed £156 no return is necessary.

LOAN AGAINST SHARES.

J. S. writes:—

I purchased shares in a public company, and have a loan against the same. Can I deduct interest from income? The lender includes the interest paid in his return.

If the money borrowed is used in the production of income the interest may be deducted.

COMMERCIAL.

UNITED STATES' WAR EXPORTS.

The exports of war material from the United States to the belligerents has been classified up to May last. The products are classified as aeroplanes, auto-trucks, barbed wire, cartridges, explosives, firearms, gunpowder, horses, horseshoes, motor cycles, rubber manufactures, and woollen manufactures. The record starts from September, 1914, when the embargo on American exports was lifted. From September to May the total war exports amounted to £33,213,720, an increase on the same months of the previous period of £28,099,000. Details of the movements in September, 1914, compared with September, 1913, and in May, 1915, compared with May, 1914, in dollars, are:—

	September, Dollars.	May, Dollars.
Aeroplanes	+ 1,789	+ 239,804
Auto trucks	+293,234	+6,456,990
Barbed wire	−184,097	+ 742,986
Cartridges	+299,907	+2,819,080
Explosives	+133,340	+4,865,098
Firearms	− 13,212	+ 885,646
Gunpowder	+ 28,098	+ 538,969
Horses	+747,722	+7,856,876
Horseshoes	+104,451	+ 92,014
Motor-cycles	− 9,845	+ 53,069
Rubber manufactures	−257,419	+ 392,616
Wool manufactures	− 48,579	+ 949,984

After September every item records a continuous advance with the exception of rubber manufactures, which fell back slightly in October, motor-cycles which dropped a little in December and February, and barbed wire which slackened off a bit in December.

INTERSTATE BUTTER MARKETS.

Prescott Ltd. write concerning the interstate butter markets as follows:—

Melbourne: On account of the strong interstate demand the price advanced to 140/ on Monday, and subsequently on Thursday to 145/. The latter figure has choked off some of the interstate demand; but London is operating to a limited extent. Supplies are a little less than last week, the total being 21,680 boxes butter, and 78 tons of cream.

Brisbane: Dry conditions still prevail throughout the State. Supplies in consequence continue to shrink. The output has not been sufficient for local requirements, and a number of buyers have been disappointed. The proclaimed price held at 140/ until Friday, when an advance was made to 149/4. Last week's production is estimated at 6340 boxes. Compared with last year, the figures were 12,030 boxes.

THURSDAY'S WOOL SALE.

In our report of Thursday's wool sale we stated,—"Teanona (Wimbledon), 10 AA xb at /15½, 9 A xb at /15¼." This should have read, "—/18½ and /17½ respectively."

CONCERT AT TOWN HALL.

In the evening at the Town Hall a concert was held. Sitting in the front row as representatives of the Government which has spent £20,000 on the Conservatorium of Music, the Premier (Mr. Holman) and the Vice-President of the Executive Council (Mr. Fitzgerald), must have been greatly disappointed at the smallness of the attendance, especially as the admission charge was only one shilling. Mr. A. E. O'Brien was the hon. director of the concert, Mr. F. C. Evans and Mr. J. W. Doyle the hon. secretaries.

Recalled for the best known of the Arditi vocal waltzes, Madame Slapoffski was even more successful in "My Hero." The highest point of enthusiasm was reached when the dramatic soprano, with Miss Lottie Hyam (piano), and Mr. Henri Staell (violin), as associate artists, sang Tosti's "Parted." So admirable was the combination that the audience clamorously secured a repetition of the song. The popular singer retired with a very large and very pretty floral tribute. Miss Evans, who opened effectively with "A Perfect Day" (Carrie Jacobs Bond), was not so successful in her recall song, "A Flower" (Kathleen Barry). The full-voiced and earnest mezzo-soprano had well-merited encore honours for "Your King and Your Country Want You," in which she was accompanied by the National Rifle Reserve Band. Mr. Dick Ryan was the other appreciated singer.

On the instrumental side of the programme Mr. Henri Staell showed both brilliance and sureness in the Sarasate "Faust" fantasie. The response to the prolonged applause took the form of the late Spanish virtuoso's "Zapatiado." Signor Torzillo (an Australian-born musician, who has enlisted) made his last public appearance. His harp solo was so well received that he had to return to the platform. Then the "Men of Harlech" march was played in a very skilful and spirited manner. Mr. Wilfred Arlom, in addition to playing most of the pianoforte accompaniments, used the full power of the grand organ in the Liszt-Bach number. Guilmant was drawn upon in the second part of the programme. The National Rifle Reserve Band (under Mr. O'Brien) was at its best in the Shipley-Douglass variations of "The Wearing of the Green." The band closed the concert with the national airs and anthems of the Allies.

On Friday evening last 118 tins of opium were found hidden in the insulation in No. 2 hold of the steamer Empire.

MINING.

MARKET MORE CHEERFUL.

SOUND WEEK-END.

METAL VALUES SOLID.

The earlier part of the past week was the reverse of cheering. A marked disinclination to speculate had an equally marked effect upon the sales recorded. But throughout it all, scripholders never lost heart. They never played into the hands of buyers by marking prices down to the low range fixed by the latter. Sellers did not even meet them halfway, with the inevitable result—very little doing in the shape of sales.

The position became almost a deadlock, until the declaration of dividends by the Broken Hill North, Wallaroo and Moonta, and Broken Hill South companies had a cheering effect upon the market, especially as it was supplemented by cabled information from London that efforts were being made by the London Chamber of Commerce and Australian merchants to enlist the assistance of the British Government in the establishment in England of zinc smelting works, and thus relieve Great Britain and Australia from the domination of German enterprise.

Moreover, the range of values ruling in the London Metal Market continues satisfactory. True, values continue to fluctuate, but the general tendency shows great stability. It has not been a case of one step forward and two backwards. Thus, a year ago copper stood at £55/7/6, since which it has steadily risen during the war, until it reached £82/15/. On November 22 it reached £82/15/, and it is now only £2 15/ lower.

Starting at £19/2/6 twelve months ago, lead moved up to £28/10/, and to-day is quoted at £26/15/. The movement in spelter was even more pronounced. Twelve months ago the price stood at £25/10/, when it started the extraordinary movement which ended, if we recollect aright, in a maximum of £115 per ton being reached. At all events £110 was the quotation on November 25 last, whilst the price to-day is £94 "spot."

Holders of tin shares have equal reason to be satisfied with the price of the white metal. A year ago the three months' price was £141/10/ per ton, but now it is £171/5/, whilst the information brought to Sydney by recent visitors to the East—to Singapore, the centre of the Banca tin operators—is that high prices can be relied upon for some time to come.

As to the prospects of the leading mines, those concerned with the production of the industrial metals continue encouraging, hence one can understand the stability of share values in view of the firmness of metal prices. A noticeable development has been the striking, after years of labour, of rich ore in the 230 crosscut from the 700ft shaft of the Peaks Silver and Lead Mining Company, Yerranderie. It is undoubtedly a continuation of the remarkably regular lode worked with much success by Bartlett's mine, also the Colon Peak, the Yerranderie, and the New Burragorang. It has been cut at a point where it is satisfactory in width and values. Work is being crowded on to the Great Cobar Ltd., copper mine, in order to resume mining and smelting operations at an early date. It has been a depressing circumstance to see such a fine smelting plant shut down so long with copper ranging at high prices.

Though business on Saturday was on a restricted scale, the tone of the market generally was healthy.

MINING NOTES.

Reporting on November 11, the manager of the Pernatty Mines, N.L., states he has forwarded to Port Augusta for shipment 398 bags of precipitates.

During the four weeks ended November 13 there were treated at the Central mine, Broken Hill, 15,848 tons of ore, producing 3275 tons leady concentrates, and 4868 tons zinc concentrates. In the same period the Cockle Creek works treated 6434 tons of leady concentrates, purchased ores, etc., producing 2598 tons lead, containing gold 2973oz and silver 216,130oz.

The past half-year's operations of the Baker's Creek Gold mine resulted in a loss of £70/7/6, which the directors regard as satisfactory, when it is considered that £381/10/ was expended on development work and making repairs to the main shaft. The company won 290oz 13dwt from 43 tons of ore—an average of 6oz 15dwt per ton. The tributers from various parts of the mine realised 777oz 18dwt from 186 1-3rd tons—an average of 4oz 3dwt per ton. Ten tributers are at present working.

In a run of 106 hours, the plant of the New Associated Gold-Dredging Company recovered 21oz 10dwts. Most of the time the dredge was working on top of a high bar, with very little gold in the wash.

Reporting by telegram for the week ending November 25, the manager of the Black Range West gold mine (W.A.) states:—"No. 2 south level: Stoping on 3ft 6in quartz, assay value 15dwt. Commenced stoping off rise on 5ft quartz, assay value 14dwt. No. 3 south level: Suspended driving for the present."

In the fortnight ended November 20, the plant of the Tewksbury Proprietary, Araluen, recovered 120oz gold, and that of the Victorian Araluen Co. 38oz.

Reporting for the past week on the operations of the White Crystal tin mine, the manager states:—"Main shaft, No. 2 level, stopes maintaining width, and yielding payable ore; No. 1 level, north stopes, width 9ft, from which the usual quota of high-grade ore was extracted. Murphy's shaft, to 34ft, the value and width of this lode same as last reported. Stackpoole's shaft to 45ft: Width of lode consistent, which contains ore of fair value."

In the fortnight ended November 10, the manager of the Occidental Gold Mining Co. (Cobar) sent to the mill 1192 tons of ore of an average value per battery head of 30/ per ton. The ore at present being raised is better. During the same period 1447 tons of slimes were treated, containing 406.7oz; the recovery being 338.7oz fine gold. In addition, six tons of concentrates were produced, containing approximately 85oz fine gold. The mine manager, in a general note, states:—"The working faces in the mine generally prospect well up to the average, and I do not anticipate a continuance of the low values prevailing during the past few weeks. Progress is being made with the erection of the building for the new crushing unit."

According to the latest report from the Bullfinch Proprietary (W.A.), Ltd., the No. 2 lode (southern series), at the 400ft level, shows traces of gold only in the main west drive. The east drive at the same depth on the No. 3 northern series is being continued in ore averaging 14/6 per ton over a width of 60 inches. The west drive has been further stripped on the north side of the previous stripping, the ore averaging 18/ over a width of 43 inches. The north crosscut at the 510ft level is in country rock.

As a result of the clean-up of the Pioneer tin mine (Tas.), the estimated yield for the six weeks' run was 55 tons of stream tin.

Writing on November 20 in reference to the No. 2 stope at No. 1 level of the Iodide (Mineral Hill) mine, the manager says, inter alia:—"All faces are looking about the same as when last reported. The development over No. 2 crosscut is still continuing, but the width of the ore in the face is now three feet. The dip of the shute has increased to about 45 degrees from horizontal. There has been a good improvement in the gold contents, yesterday's assay giving 1.44oz. Ore production for week was 70 tons. We are working a face 30 feet north from No. 2 shaft, which appeared to be a continuation of rich silver values worked by tributer between No. 1 and 2 shafts, same is about 4 feet wide, assay value, lead 30 per cent., silver 57oz, gold 10dwt." Writing later, under same date, the manager adds:—"We have located the shute of gold-bearing ore on the 90-foot level at a point from 20 to 30 feet north-east from the No. 2 crosscut. We made an assay today which gave, over a width of 2 feet 6 inches, lead 13 per cent., silver 30oz, and gold 3oz 18dwt. As the assay was cut to the floor of the level there does not seem to be much doubt about it going down under the level."

GOOBARRAGANDRA GOLD MINE.

The subjoined information is extracted from the latest report of the manager of the above mine:—

"No. 1 shaft sunk to 30ft. A small intrusion of mullock split the lode at 25ft. The strongest portion of lode was sunk on, but the gold prospects are somewhat patchy in the bottom of the shaft. Started driving into hillside. Now in 15ft; lode in face 18in, and prospects good. Also put in crosscut from bottom of shaft to cut northern leg of ore body. Lode was cut at 10ft, and is about 10in wide, but prospects are good. No. 2 (parallel) shaft is down to 42ft; ore body in bottom about 18in, and carries splendid values. Level going into hillside extended to 40ft. Right throughout, high-class ore is in sight, and in the face the lode is holding its own for width and values. No. 3 (parallel) shaft is down 20ft, lode still a foot wide, and prospects very well. Free gold is easily seen, and often dolly prospects are up to over 10oz. Operations, taking things all round, are proving highly satisfactory, and quite up to anticipations.

The following assay returns are to hand since last report—No. 1 shaft, bottom 2ft wide, 1oz 12dwt; No. 2 shaft, bottom 15in wide, 4oz 9dwt; No. 3 shaft, from surface to 10ft deep, 3oz; and samples from footwall 20oz 19dwt gold per ton. Samples taken from face of drive No. 2 shaft returned 29oz 8dwt, and 14oz 14dwt gold per ton."

WATERSIDE WORKERS.

CASE IN COURT.

"AN INDISCREET SPEECH."

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Further argument was heard in the Arbitration Court on Friday before Mr. Justice Higgins on claims made for a variation of the recent award of the court in the Waterside Workers' case. Mr. Cohen, representing the applicants, said that the Waterside Workers Federation represented a large body of men—about 70,000 throughout Australia. The federation had come to court in the hope of securing as far as possible industrial peace. On the first day on which the Court sat in the case, he offered on behalf of the federation to put everything into the melting pot, in order that his Honor would have a magnificent opportunity to wipe out the difference existing between the parties. But what had been the result? If every claim was to be granted the men would not be satisfied, and could not be satisfied.

His Honor: You say if I were to grant everything, the men would not be satisfied?

Mr. Cohen: That is so. The fault I find in this case is that the log is being strictly construed so as to shut out a number of claims of men. I submit it is idle to tell these men that they had the advantage of college, university, or legal education, so as to draw up their log in more clear and scholarly fashion. A number of claims now contained in their summons may have been dealt with by the Court.

His Honor: The position is that you are pandering to a kind of argument which you must know to be unfair argument.

Mr. Cohen: I am pandering to nothing. The men have trusted the Court, and do trust the Court, and want their claims considered by it. That was my offer. It is because the employers have not trusted the Court that we have had all this difficulty. I am not blaming the Court, I am blaming the system. Your Honor is manacled, is shackled from head to foot, by the High Court decisions, and the sooner an amendment of the Act is obtained the better for all parties. This has been a very expensive proceeding to these men. If your Honor had dealt with these claims and rejected them they would have been satisfied.

His Honor: I must say this is the most indiscreet and ill-advised speech I have ever heard from counsel, and that is saying a good deal. You know thoroughly well that if there is an action for libel there cannot be an action for assault and battery. You are now throwing fuel into the fire and blowing upon the fire to make it stronger. When you speak of claims, you know thoroughly well they must be within the area of the log. That is the only limitation which has been put, and employers are perfectly entitled to insist on my not going into a matter outside the dispute.

Mr. Cohen: I am not blaming the Court. The cap does not fit, your Honor. It fits the employers, or should fit them. It is the employers who have been bantering me, saying we ought to compromise.

The hearing was adjourned.

CHINESE PIRATES.

FIGHT WITH JAPANESE BLUEJACKETS.

According to news received by the steamer Eastern on Saturday, Chinese pirates are still causing trouble in eastern waters. Shortly before the Eastern left a Japanese fishing boat, containing six men, was fired on by a pirate steamer near the Miaotao Group. A fisherman named Kyotaro Matsuo was injured, but the fishing boat escaped, and reported the incident to the Port Arthur naval station. Several Japanese torpedo boats were despatched to search for the pirates, and, hearing that a large number had landed on Taichin Island, a naval party was landed there. While searching the island the party was suddenly fired on by the pirates, and a bluejacket was wounded. Two of the pirates were killed, three captured, and the remainder scattered in all directions. The bluejacket afterwards died as a result of his wound.

NOTES ON THE RACING.

The first heat of the Flying Squadron's race had only just begun when Mavis carried away a shroud, and Scot's peak came down with a run, both boats being forced to retire.

The weight of the breeze had the crews on their mettle from the start, and while Quibree made bad weather of it Arline, under a fine suit of sails, pointed well up into the wind, and went very nicely. Sydney, too, sailed well, but in going about after opening up Bradley's Head almost filled up, and fell away while the water was being got out. Arline's chance was also depreciated by shipping a good deal of water, while Enid found the conditions too strenuous, and retired at the head of Taylor Bay.

Nicely rigged for the breeze, Rosetta sailed a great boat from the start, and, having gone to the front before reaching Bradley's Head, showed the way to the Taylor Bay mark, where she led comfortably from Swastika, the order of the others being—Sydney, Arline, Golding, and Boronia.

Boronia made some great spurts on the lead to Shark Island, and continued to improve her position, racing from Shark Island home. After a good finish with Swastika and Sydney she gained the second prize.

Kismet was in her element in the hard breeze, and at the mark at Taylor Bay in the second heat had overhauled all except Sunny South, which led by 21s. Australian was third, followed by Desdemona, Moyana, Mississippi, and Nimrod. Pastime had capsized off Bradley's Head, while Acme had dropped out.

Sunny South's for'ard hands were a little slow getting the ballooner drawing, and it afterwards carried away, and was replaced by the jib. Notwithstanding this, it was not until the Shark Island buoy was reached that Kismet caught her, the two rounding together. Just after rounding the island buoy Australian and Desdemona got foul of one another, and Desdemona's mainsail was torn. Australian was disqualified by the umpire, and drew off the course, while Desdemona continued under balloon jib only, and was relegated to fifth place before reaching the finish. Kismet had no difficulty in winning, being followed home by Sunny South, Moyana, and Nimrod.

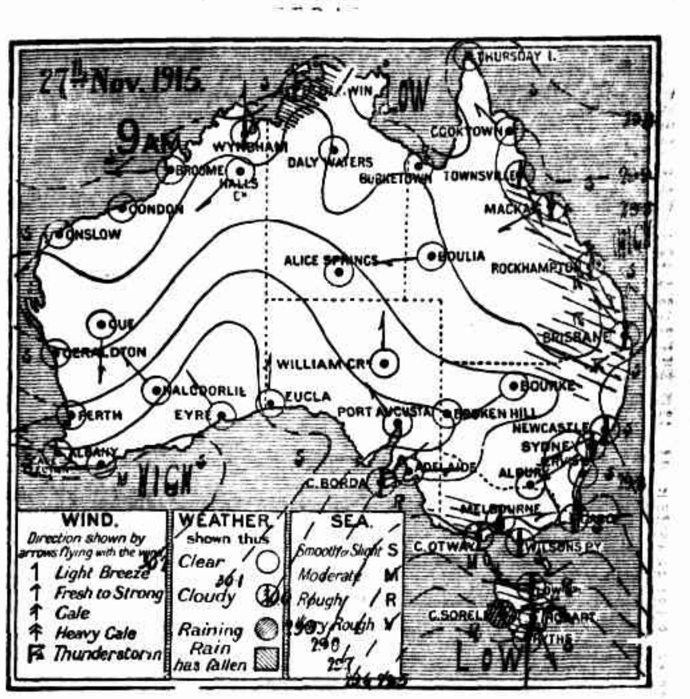
Soon after the start of the final something went wrong with Sunny South's jib, and it was lowered but reset. Rosetta again sailed well, and, revelling in the breeze, stood out from Bradley's in the lead, with Swastika, Sunny South, Sydney, and Boronia in the next best positions.

At the Taylor Bay mark Rosetta led by 46s from Sunny South, the order of the others being—Kismet, Nimrod, Sydney, Moyana, Golding, and Boronia. Swastika was disqualified for interfering with Sydney near the mark.

Sunny South dropped back into sixth place on the lead to Shark Island, while Moyana overhauled Sydney. The latter endeavoured to get the inside running of Moyana at the buoy, but was disqualified for forcing a passage. Rosetta won nicely from Kismet, the order of the others being—Nimrod, Moyana, Sunny South, Boronia, and Golding.

The winner was well handled by F. Newton, her builder, whose presence at the helm brought about a reduction of 2m in the boat's handicap.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.



As pointed out in Friday's remarks on the distribution of atmospheric pressure, the general outlook for rain in the very dry regions was undergoing a gratifying improvement. Due to significant developments in the "col" area, which extended from the Gulf of Carpentaria, through Central Queensland and over our north-eastern districts, light to heavy rain, with thunderstorms, has resulted on the Darling Downs, on the coast south from Mackay, and adjacent parts, also at a few places in the north. In New South Wales light to heavy amounts have been received, with thunderstorms at scattered places in the north-eastern districts, chiefly on the North Coast, Tweed Heads, and Mullumbimby each recording 140 points, excellent falls, considering the erstwhile dryness.

In addition to these welcome falls, a manifestation of increasing activity in the tropics is denoted by the fall of 1020 points at Port Darwin.

Since 9 a.m. on Friday the little movements noticeable in the various pressure systems have all been of a very favourable description, for the western high has retrogressed somewhat, thus broadening the "col" area between it and the eastern high. The greater part of tropical and eastern Australia is now under relatively flat barometric control, in which has formed an extensive and prepossessing "monsoonal tongue." The indications favour further rain and thunder developments in the eastern districts of New South Wales, more especially in the north-east quarter. Additional rains are also likely in central and southern Queensland, and isolated strong local windstorms.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally westerly winds strong local windstorms.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The general entries for the A.J.C. December and Summer meetings on the 18th and 27th prox respectively close to-day at 4 p.m. with the secretary, Mr. C. W. Cropper. The added money available for the nine events that need attention aggregates £2800.

The weights for the A.J.C. Villiers Stakes and Summer Cup should see the light to-day.

The South Australian-bred Kagal, a son of imported Pistol (by Carbine) and Portesa, by Positano (imp. from Maravilla), by Marvellous (imp.), opened his winning career at Moorefield on Saturday in the Maiden Handicap, for which, in a field of 16, he left the paddock an odds on favourite. He was one of the first to get going, and, taking charge in a few strides, was not afterwards headed, though Bonne Chance gamely stuck to him all the way. Kagal was bred by Mr. J. H. Aldridge, and was purchased as a yearling at the Melbourne blood stock sales by the late Mr. Earnshaw for 110 gns; but later sold him to his present owner, F. Williams, at the same figure.

The trotting meeting under the management of the Australian Trotting Club, postponed from Saturday last, takes place this afternoon on the Victoria Park track. The customary transit service by rail will be in vogue, trams running from Circular Quay and the Railway-square loop at short intervals. A number of good performers are engaged, and the sport commences at 2.30 p.m.

The first of imported Bronzino's progeny gained the winning list on Saturday, when Bruck secured the Nursery Handicap at Moorefield. A week before, on the Canterbury Park track, Bruck was beaten by a head by Blue Shot, who had 3lb less to carry, but on this occasion the positions were reversed and Blue Shot had 4lb more than his opponent. Again the finish was fought out between the pair over the last three furlongs, and both finishing with great gameness Bronzino's son scored by a very narrow margin. The Victorian bred filly Wolke, by The Welkin (imp.), was sent out a pronounced favourite, but he could only get into third place four lengths behind Blue Shot. Styria, the dam of Bruck, was bred by Mr. S. Hordern, and is by Haut Brion (imp.) from Trieste, by Chester from Tempe, by Somnus (imp.), and the fashionably-bred youngster is leased from Mr. Hordern by Mr. C. H. Bryans, V.S.

Nominations for the South Coast pony race meeting, to be held on the Wollongong racecourse on the 6th prox, close at 5 p.m. to-day with the secretary, Mr. Geo. N. Kilduff, at the office, Royal Arcade, Pitt-street. The prize-money totals 160 sovs, distributed over six races.

Three Star, who opened his winning account a week before on the Canterbury Park track, was again successful at Moorefield on Saturday. In a field of 14 he started a shade better favourite than Lord Liddle, and, piloted by W. Lillyman, he took charge when half the journey had been covered, and scored comfortably at the end from the Maltster gelding Hopfield, with the New Zealand bred mare Margarita in the other situation.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans, will receive entries for the half-dozen events on the card for the Moorefield December meeting on the 11th prox. The prize-money aggregates 2600 sovs, equally distributed.

Kenilera, a three-year-old half-sister to that smart two-year-old filly Dame Acre, who earned a winning bracket at the Warwick Farm November meeting, was the popular selection for the Kogarah Stakes at Moorefield on Saturday, and in such respect was she held by the ringmen that all her admirers had to lay a shade of odds on, while the figures showed that Miss Sylvanite and Petrillia were regarded as her most dangerous opponents. The betting market accurately foreshadowed the result, for Miss Sylvanite and the favourite joined issue as they came round the bend, and the pair turned for home locked together, but Kenilera got her head in front at the distance, and finished with Miss Sylvanite at her girths, and Petrillia in the other situation.

The Victoria Park Racing Club has provided 700 sovs prize-money for its pony and galloway meeting on Saturday next, and entries for the seven events on the card will be received by the secretary, Mr. H. Coberoft, up to 5 p.m. to-day.

There were nine starters for the Moorefield Handicap on Saturday, the best fancied of whom was Chid, while Quisita, Claude Mimer, My Palm, Grab Apple, and Sir Vive were all marketable. Grab Apple set the pace to the top of the hill, where the favourite joined him, had his measure ere the distance was reached, and beat him in good style, while Quisita occupied the other situation. Chid, who carried the colours of the Randwick trainer, W. Kelso, is by Antonio (imp.) from Lelamina, by Schimmel, and was piloted by W. Kelso, junr., who is apprenticed to his father.

The inquiry by the A.J.C. stipendiary stewards into the running of Istrian in the Pace Welter at Warwick Farm on the 20th inst. was resumed on Saturday, and was further adjourned.

The Fucile gelding Grail was sent out a warm favourite for the Welter at Moorefield on Saturday, with Balustrade, Foil, Torula, and Box Seat next fancied, in a field of 15. Cool Air set the pace for more than half the journey, and then retired in favour of Box Seat, who was not afterwards troubled, and scored with the greatest ease from Sir Howard, with Cool Air in the other situation, while the favourite was never sighted in the race. The winner was bred by Mr. J. M. M'Master, and is by Flavus (imp.) from Blue Ticket, by True Blue from Reception, by Grand Flaneur, and carried the colours of his trainer, J. Dewar.

The magpie grass track was open on Saturday morning, and on it Cagou registered a mile in 1m 47½s, while Marvos occupied 1m 53s in running a like journey. The Mogul went freely over six furlongs, and Plenty ran a strong round. Gillalambi ran half a mile, and Onazer put six furlongs past in 1m 20s. Several gallops were run on the tan. Giru got over six furlongs in 1m 22s. Athenic spurted, and a mile was run by Elystan and Sea Pink in 2m 49s. Allaru moved smartly over six furlongs. Ornato cantered, and Herringbone worked freely over five furlongs. Flash of Steel put in a useful round. Flippant ran a strong mile, and Narivo went at half pace over a circle. The Christian Brother put in a useful round, and a number of others did easy tasks.

The inquiry into the running of Applique in the Epsom Plate at Moonee Valley on Wednesday was (telegraphs our Melbourne correspondent), concluded on Friday, when the stewards gave the following decision:—"P. J. Bartley (owner), E. S. Grace (rider), and Applique are disqualified for two years each for dishonourable action in connection with the running of Applique in the Epsom Plate at Moonee Valley on November 24."

G. E. H. (City).—Sword of Honor was not a starter at Menangle Park.

The full programme for the annual meeting of Tattersall's Club at Randwick on the 28th December and 1st January, is announced, and those interested should note that the general entry closes with the secretary, Mr. J. B. Oliffe, at 4 p.m., on Monday, December 6. For the five open events on the card for the opening day 1200 sovs added money has been provided, and for a similar number on the second day 1300 sovs.

Our Armidale correspondent telegraphs that the Armidale and New England Jockey Club held its annual meeting on Thursday night. The report and balance-sheet showed satisfactory results. The year started with a debit balance of £498, and closed with a debit of £271. The receipts for the year amounted to £2282. The same officials as those of last year were re-elected.

The Canterbury Park Race Club has donated 500 sheepskin vests to the Tanned Sheepskin Clothing Committee for the use of Australian soldiers at the front.

First forfeit for the A.J.C. December Stakes fall due at 4 p.m. to-day.

MOOREFIELD RACING CLUB.

NOVEMBER MEETING.

THREE STAR AGAIN SUCCESSFUL.

CHID WINS MOOREFIELD HANDICAP.

In fine, warm, and blustery weather, the Moorefield November reunion took place on Saturday, and, despite counter attraction, there was a large assemblage to witness the sport. The track was excellent going, the fields of goodly proportions, and the card was run through without mishap or unpleasantness. Backers were well on the mark with their selections, four favourites acting up to expectations, while the other two winners were well backed. The general arrangements were efficiently supervised by the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans. The details of the racing are subjoined:—

Passing the half-mile post, Bonne Chance and Kagal were disputing the lead a length in advance of [illegible] Liquor, Closerie, Morna Loa, and Lovely Night, [illegible] clear, and showed the way into the straight from Closerie, Bonne Chance, and Liquor. Grab Apple, Claude Mimer, and Chid were first to break the line, and Grab Apple passed the judge's box closely attended by Chid, Prinus, My Palm, and Quisita. That order was preserved down the hill and round the bend, and Grab Apple opened up the back stretch, followed at length intervals by Chid, Prinus, and Quisita, after whom came My Palm and Sir Vive, with Royal Time last. Save that Prinus retired, there was no change as they raced past the half-mile post, but as they ascended the hill Chid ranged up alongside Grab Apple, and they were succeeded by Quisita and My Palm. BOXING.

M'GOORTY DEFEATS KING.

Eddie M'Goorty decisively beat Mick King at the Sydney Stadium on Saturday, the towel being thrown in in the eleventh round, after King had been once knocked down. M'Goorty went for a knock-out from the start, after leaving himself wide open to tempt the other to exchange blows. King took such good advantage of his openings, and blocked the American's swings so cleverly in the third and fourth rounds, that he got ahead on points, his efforts being loudly cheered. He also did well in the sixth round, but in the eighth M'Goorty, fighting less wildly, proved the better boxer of the two, scoring freely with straight lefts. Forcing exchanges in the ninth, M'Goorty punished the Australian badly, but took things quietly in the tenth, reserving his winning effort for the eleventh round. Both weighed a few ounces inside the middleweight limit.

YATES DEFEATS THORN.

B.S.A. SECOND, in Side-car Class.
THE ONLY SIDE-CAR MACHINES TO FINISH WITHIN 24 HOURS.

Two 4¼-h.p. B.S.A.'s were entered against all other makes, including 8-h.p. Twin Machines. But the B.S.A. were the only Side-car Machines to finish within the Time, having averaged 20 Miles per Hour.

The Winning Machine, Ridden by Mr. A. E. Thomas, with Mr. J. Hart as passenger, made a wonderful performance, being the first of any of the Competitors over OBERON HILL, and also the first Machine to enter BATHURST, and the first Side-car Machine at all controls throughout the course, and the only Side-car Machine to finish without loss of points.

The other B.S.A. machine, ridden by Mr. G. A. Lloyd, with Mr. C. Howell as passenger, had minor delays early in the course, being late at the first control, all lost time, however, was remarkably picked up before the next control, and this Machine also finished up to time.

DOUBLE GREEN COUPONS

GIVEN BETWEEN THE HOURS OF 8 A.M. AND 1 P.M.

We give GREEN COUPONS, and give them freely. There is nothing extraordinary in the fact that we give Coupons and quote lower prices than elsewhere at the same time. The explanation is quite simple. Green Coupons attract a very large number of purchasers, and naturally increase our volume of sales. Large volume of sales give us a large purchasing power. Large purchasing power, as everybody understands, enables us to buy cheaper. Therefore, ask for GREEN COUPONS at Marcus Clark's.

To-day we would mention, firstly, a few new lines

PITT-STREET HORDERNS

FOR EVERYTHING IN

HOUSEHOLD DRAPERY.

THE PITT-STREET HORDERN QUALITY IS WAY UP,
JUST AS THE PITT-STREET HORDERN PRICE IS WAY DOWN.

When the War began, and folks didn't quite know where they were, prices were very shaky, naturally. When prices wobble it's time for wise people to get busy, therefore, we Bought, and Bought Big, and then cabled home and Bought all before Prices began that steady rise that stopped yet.

NOW WE REAP THE HARVEST. Our present prices, based on what we paid for our huge stocks, are equal to BIG REDUCTIONS on "otherwhere," less foresighted folks' offerings. If we are doing a bigger business by passing the savings on to you it's certainly worth while, isn't it?

Compare these prices and qualities, and see if our argument doesn't stand good.

SNOW'S.

Remember that Story of Columbus—how he showed a number of clever men that it was easy to stand an egg on end?

When a person says a thing is impossible it is generally interrupted by someone doing it. War, we were told, would make it impossible to get this, that, and the other, but have kept on keeping their eighteen Specialty Shops well stocked with good Goods, and their shops have in turn kept on, keeping them "keeping on." Snows are prepared to stand even Dumpty" Markets on end if needs be, to get what the people want at the Prices safe to pay.

THIRTY MILES OF

FUJI SILKS

ARE HERE TO BE SOLD AT

1/11½ YARD.

Come and count the pieces stacked up in Snow's Specialty Silk Shop. There are many different pronunciations used by women who come in on buying bent. We call it "Foo-gee" and spell it "Fuji." But never mind how it is pronounced, it is the Right Silk, and at the Right Price.

SNOW'S FUJI SILKS ARE 29 INCHES WIDE.
SNOW'S FUJI SILKS ARE OF THE SAFE QUALITY TO BUY.

NOTHING BETTER IS OFFERED ELSEWHERE.
